800 Freed By Cubans

HAVANA (UPI)—The Cuban government announced today the American Red Cross charter ship American Surveyor will take about 800 refugees to the United States Sunday.

The ship is here unloading a consignment of ransom goods in exchange for the released Pigs Bay invasion prisoners.

The official communique said the Cubans were going to the United States "due to a reversal by the Kennedy regime in its policy of authorizing entrance into the United States from Cuba."

The government had charged previously that the U.S. cut off the influx of exiles from Cuba because of grave sociological problems they allegedly produced in the Miami area.

All Cubans leaving have completed emigration proceedings including relinquishing cars and other belongings to the government.

Jordan Youths Storm, Seize Own Embassy

BAGHDAD, Iraq (Reuters)—Some 70 Jordanian students today stormed and took over the Jordanian Embassy here and hoisted an Arab-unity flag while 1,000 fellow students shouted their support and Iraqi police and armed soldiers stood by applauding.

A correspondent who telephoned the embassy got the reply: "This is the embassy of the republic of Jordan."

A student who gave his name as Ahmad Tadmuri said Charge d'Affaires Sayed Fawaz Ghanam and his staff were all safe but added: "We will sleep and eat here."

The demonstrators marched into the building while Jordanian officials looked on helplessly. The students arrived singing "death to (King) Hussein of Jordan."

RAISE FLAG
The invading students raised a four-star Arab unity flag over the building. The flag of the proposed federation of Egypt, Syria and Iraq contains three stars.

The four-star flag has recently been displayed by those who want Jordan to join the federation.

A spokesman for the anti-Hussein element in Baghdad said the embassy coup was planned some days ago and similar action was expected in the Jordanian embassies in Cairo and Damascus.

(In Ankara today about 100 Jordanian students entered the Jordanian Embassy in a demonstration against Hussein. The embassy called for the police but the demonstrators dispersed before they arrived.)

'PAPER TOWN' SCORES WELL
SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP)—Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls, B.C., and Ralph Hutton, also from the tiny paper-and-pulp town, won the second-place silver and the third-place bronze medals in the men's 1,500-metre freestyle swim at the Pan-American Games today.

Patricia Pomfort of Vancouver took a bronze in the women's 200-metre freestyle.

400-Foot Flames

ROCKET CENTRE, W.Va. (UPI)—Three men were killed and 11 others injured today when a devastating explosion tore through the Allegheny Ballistics Laboratory, one of the chief sources of fuel supply for the Polaris missile.

The thunderous blast, which occurred about 3:30 a.m., in a chemical processing building, shot flames 400 feet into the air, unloosed an atomic-looking cloud of smoke and rumbled the ground for distances up to 10 miles.

The facility is operated by the Hercules Powder Co. for the U.S. Navy. Its number one product is solid fuel propellant and it was one of the prime developers of the Polaris missile.

A spokesman for Hercules said the cause of the blast is "not now known" but officials have begun an investigation. He added that sabotage "is not even being considered."

Plant manager John C. Foster said damage will run into "many thousands of dollars." He said the explosion, which scattered debris over a quarter-mile area, would cause interruptions in some of the centre's operations.

BEAMS TOSSED AROUND
About 200 workers were on the job during the "cat-eye" trick when the explosion cut loose. It hurled huge steel I-beams through the air, leaving them twisted like pretzels, and shattered thousands of windows on other buildings located on the 1,600-acre grounds.

The dead men were working in the processing building, which was demolished. They were identified as Egil Ludvigsen, 29, Oakland, Md.; David L. Wright, 27, Westernport, Md., and Chester R. Kenner, 27, Midland, Md.

Seven of the injured required hospitalization, but only one was reported in serious condition. The injured were not in the building at the time of the explosion, second here in two years.

On May 22, 1961, a blast demolished another chemical processing building here and killed nine workers. That occurred during the day shift.

Cuba Backs Up Claim Of 'Pirate' Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP)—A More than eight hours after free-lance photographer who claims he took part in a bombing raid on Havana says he'll press the attack on Communist Cuba "at every opportunity."

echoed most of his story and said it holds the United States responsible.

The state department at first cast doubt on the whole matter. After Havana radio broadcast the Cuban government's statement Friday night the department had no comment.

Associated Press correspondent George Arfled said in a dispatch from Cuba there were no visible indications that the Nico Lopez refinery outside Havana had been bombed. He said usually reliable sources had expressed doubt there was a raid.

Havana radio said "the Cuban government holds the United States government responsible for these pirate attacks and the consequences that may come from them."

It said a formal diplomatic protest was being prepared.

As outlined by the Cuban government, the raid took place at 10 p.m. Thursday night. Rorke told reporters the plane started its bombing run at 8:55 p.m. and was over the refinery for four minutes and 40 seconds.

VERSIONS MESH

In most other details the two versions meshed. Rorke and the government statement said a two-engine plane approached from the north, flew over the Nico Lopez refinery, dropped a 100-pound bomb and several napalm fire bombs then flew northward.

Havana radio said none of the bombs exploded. Rorke said he thought he heard the 100-

'WAR' AGAINST CASTRO DECLARED BY EXILE

MIAMI (UPI)—Filipe Vidal Santiago, a former naval commander for Fidel Castro, formally declared war against Cuba today in the hope of gaining a base of operations for his liberation movement.

Vidal, 37, said he was petitioning the White House and the ambassadors of the Organization of American States in Washington today for recognition of his group as "a belligerent under international law."

Dressed in a neat blue business suit himself, but with his 23-year-old brother modeling the military uniform of the United Front for the Liberation of Cuba, Vidal announced his plans "to organize and conduct military operations on the high seas and in the Republic of Cuba."

AT GUANTANAMO BASE

Marine Helped Bury Body of Slain Spy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ex-marine William A. Szili said today he helped retrieve from Cuban soil and secretly bury the body of a Guantanamo Bay naval base employee he called a Castro spy. Szili, ousted from the corps last year, said the only thing he did wrong was get caught.

'DEATH DRINK' HUNT IN SPAIN

LA CORUNA, Spain (AP)—Spanish officials searched over 14 provinces today for bottles of impure liquors they blamed for the deaths of more than 20 people in northern Spain recently.

The hunt for the "drink of death" began when several residents of Galicia died after drinking locally produced rums and spirits. Authorities here said the directors of eight separate liquor factories were under detention.

Szili told reporters he decided to help his company commander get rid of the body of Ruben Lopez "because of the international repercussion" he thought would come in the wake of the shooting.

The former lieutenant spent two hours telling his story to Representative Richard S. Schweiker (Rep. Pa.). Schweiker said he will demand "a full-scale congressional investigation."

Szili said Lopez was shot one Saturday night late in September, 1961, after Capt. Arthur J. Jackson found the Cuban providing about a restricted magazine.

FIRE HOSE FLUSHES CAT FROM UNDER PARIS GIRLS' SCHOOL

Escaped Leopard Terrorizes Suburb

By PATRICK McNULTY

PARIS (AP)—A snarling black leopard, just a few days removed from a Borneo jungle, was tracked down and captured today underneath a girls' school in a Paris suburb.

The leopard escaped from a circus and had brought terror to entire community of St. Denis on the outskirts of Paris.

A worker was bitten on the arm and shoulder Friday when he stumbled on the big jungle cat in a darkened apartment house corridor.

After an intense search by police carrying machine-guns and led by dogs, the leopard was found this morning hiding beneath the one-storey school.

missed as police, firemen and members of the Franki circus swarmed over the school grounds.

At the gates of the school yard, police held back a crowd of about 2,000 while circus animal trainers hastily set up cages and nets to trap the leopard.

One small cage was set up just outside a three-foot square hole in the foundation through which the leopard entered. This was reinforced by a larger cage.

Firemen tried to flush the animal from under the school house by squirting in tear gas. This failed. Firemen then tried to force it into the cage with water from a high pressure hose.

With sledge hammers, they knocked a hole in one end of the school's foundation to insert the nozzle. A large hole was also cut in the floor of the school and three animal trainers climbed down into the low, 3½-foot high foundation area.

Working with only a heavy net for protection, the animal trainers—helped by the firemen squirting the hose—tried to chase the leopard into the cage.

Trainer Jacky Rex, standing inside the large net, was handed a pistol. The onlookers became still. The only sound was the sharp click when Rex cocked his pistol and pointed it at the cage enclosing the dark opening to the foundation.

There was a black blur. The leopard suddenly was in the cage. It was snarling, wet, and angry. The men outside the cage quickly lowered a rope that closed the door of the small cage. A loud cheer went up from the onlookers and the leopard joined in with a few angry snarls.

The cage was quickly loaded into a waiting van and taken back to the circus which is set up a few blocks away.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Television actor Sebastian Cabot has been searching second-hand stores and auction rooms looking for furniture for his cottage on his newly-acquired property at Deep Cove. The portly actor was seen earlier this week, wandering through "a hardware store in Sidney with his hands full of pots and pans, "needed to feed my little family while we get the property in shape."

Cabot plans to make Deep Cove his summer home when he can get away from his television work in Hollywood.

He drove to Victoria in record time on "those excellent U.S. freeways." In answer to many questions regarding his citizenship status he says: "I work in the U.S., but I'm a British subject and proud of it."

It finally happened! An employee of Colonist editorial was forced to ask the Times recently.

Our friend, so the story goes, had given up searching for the date the demit, imposed on Victorians during the Second World War, was lifted.

"Why don't you send a letter to 'Ask the Times'?" a fellow worker suggested.

He did, and got his answer in the April 17 edition of the Times.

More Anglicans attend church on a Sunday morning in Africa than in Canada and the United States combined, Archbishop Harold Sexton told the 61st session of the Anglican Synod of British Columbia, meeting in Victoria Wednesday.

The archbishop said laity of the diocese have been asked to locate 200,000 missing Anglicans whose names are not recorded on any parish rolls in B.C. and bring them into the fellowship.

In case you think all hotrodders are wild teen-agers, think again.

Because Del Wagner of Salem, Ore., whose '31 Ford is one of the featured cars in the Quartermilers Autorama, is the living refutation of such a thought.

After all, his 18-year-old daughter Cathy is showing her own hotrod in the show—a '53 Chevrolet outstanding for its $900 upholstery job.

What's the point of late-opening on Friday nights if the shop closes early, a friend inquires.

Miffed because he missed the government liquor cache in the neighborhood shopping centre at Port and Foul Bay by two minutes Friday night, he checked the store clock, visible through the plate glass front.

It was two minutes fast.

"I don't mind them opening early, but do they have to close early, too?" he protested.

Mrs. Kathleen Tapley, 1935 Grandview, woke up early this morning to see what looked like a Black Widow spider racing around on the ceiling above her.

She leapt from her bed.

"It was jet black and almost an inch long," Mrs. Tapley said, "and I decided to get as far away from it as possible."

Minutes later, Mrs. Tapley's 17-year-old son, Ray, entered the bedroom, stood on the bed and trapped the spider in a glass jar.

"I'm not sure if it's a Black Widow spider or not," Mrs. Tapley said, "but it certainly gave me a scare."

Mrs. Tapley said she would show the spider to Victoria naturalist Freeman King.

If you, as a pedestrian, think the car-check campaign currently sponsored by the Canadian Highway Safety Council is of interest only to motorists, you're wrong.

Every time a pedestrian—particularly if a jaywalker or signal breaker—steps out into the street, he is putting his faith in the mechanical condition of the vehicles using the road, says the council.

One Victoria couple who has more than a passing acquaintance with the city's sewers is Mrs. M. E. Bennett and her husband.

Dashing to attend a cookery school in the Memorial Arena Tuesday evening, Mrs. Bennett dropped her car keys down a sewer grating.

Phoned for help, Mr. Bennett brought the spare keys from home and, with a little manoeuvring, managed to rescue the original set from the city's underground.

The joyous croakings of Victoria bullfrogs, with the barking of Oak Bay dogs, will be heard in Vancouver soon.

Recording enthusiast Hudson Blake sent a tape of the local sounds to disc jockey Bill Ward at Vancouver station C-FUN for use in his Sunday night "Dog-house" program.

Last Sunday Bill dedicated his program to Victoria listeners, declaring that our bullfrogs are louder and lustier than their mainland cousins.

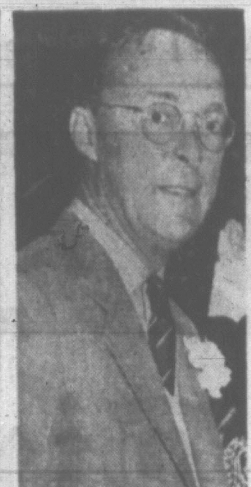

Hudson's tape (with spoken commentary) will prove it. Though confined to a wheelchair since he was 15, Hudson gets around Victoria and district recording local sounds. As president and founder of Victoria Recording Club, he exchanges tapes with similar clubs in Europe and North America.

zine area and tried to usher him back to Cuban territory. Lopez was shot after lunging at Jackson.

SHOT ON CUBAN SOIL

The Cuban was on the Cuban side of the base fence line when Jackson shot him. Szil said the body fell over a cliff and landed at the water's edge below. It remained there for several days before he and Jackson enlisted the help of several other marines, brought it back to the U.S. side of the fence and buried it.

Base officials later found the body. Szil and Jackson were discharged from the service.

Both the defence department and the Marine Corps refused comment.

In October, 1961, the body of a Cuban named Ruben Lopez was found inside the base. Fidel Castro's government charged he had been tortured and killed because he had Castro sympathizers and demanded that the persons responsible be turned over.

Without disclosing any details, the United States expressed regret for Lopez's death and pressed an investigation which it completed late in 1961. The defence department did not make a report of the investigation public, saying only that no charges had been filed.

Gordon Head Considers Club Project

Replacement of its 70-year-old community hall with a $100,000 community club has been proposed by Gordon Head Community Association.

All district residents are invited to attend a meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the community hall, Tyndall Road, to consider the proposals being investigated by executive members.

Director Geoffrey Vantreight said the club would be based along similar lines to Vancouver and district community clubs, but would in no way be exclusive.

Plans include a 72 by 50-foot building with integrated, heated, covered swimming pool adjoining.

The next step could be to seek formal preparation of plans, he said, although financing must also be considered.

Mr. Vantreight suggested the sale of subscriptions to residents of the area, entitling shareholders to participate in community functions such as swimming, at a reduced rate.

Those involved in the project so far are enthusiastic, he said, adding:

"It's in the working stages now and we need people out to the meeting."

A committee appointed last month to explore the situation will report to the general meeting Wednesday.

Tobacco Tax In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP) — Premier Duff Roblin announced plans Friday for a cigarette tax amounting to four cents for a pack of 20.

The move was outlined in the Progressive Conservative leader's 1963-64 budget in the Manitoba legislature.

Cigars and other tobacco products will be taxed at a "corresponding" rate.

He did not announce a specific reason for the tobacco tax but said "the essential needs of a growing economy demand more revenues to pay for the new and expanded programs which the House has approved."

pounder hit a refinery tank but he was unable to see any damage. He said he was filming the raid, but that the film turned out poorly.

He said the plane was launched from an island "south of Cuba."

With him on the raid, Rorke said, were an American businessman, an American student from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a Cuban exile. None was identified further.

He said he had participated in leaflet raids over Cuba in October and December, 1961, and would return "at every opportunity."

Rorke said U.S. customs authorities have impounded his yacht, the Violyn III, which had been used by Cuban exiles on 11 sea raids against Cuba before British authorities seized it in the Bahamas on March 31.

Last Bodies Brought Up From Mine

CLARKSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — Survivors today planned funerals for 22 victims of a violent coal mine explosion in northern West Virginia, while mine officials tried to pinpoint the cause of the tragedy.

Rescue workers located the last of the bodies late Friday night, and by midnight had brought all the victims to the surface at the Clinchfield Coal Company's Compass No. 2 mine at Dola, 12 miles northwest of Clarksburg.

Authorities did not learn immediately what ignited the explosion 400 feet under the surface Thursday night, but the ingredients were believed to be methane gas and coal dust.

Death apparently came quickly. Most of the men apparently were knocked down by shock waves from the explosion and died instantly. The bodies showed signs of concussion.

The 30,000 to 35,000 deaths annually from cancer in the United States are about equal to the number of traffic deaths.

Italian Vote To Retain Status Quo?

By JOHN EARLE

ROME (Reuters)—The two-month Italian general election campaign ended at midnight with observers today predicting no substantial change in the government after voting winds up Sunday night.

Before the ban on campaigning went into effect at midnight, all parties issued urgent appeals for support from Italy's 34,000,000 voters.

The issues in the election were mostly domestic, with only the Communists bringing in foreign policy by attacking the government's support of NATO.

All parties except the Communists accept Italy's membership in the Western alliance. Foreign observers said only major Communist gains could radically alter Italy's position in the alliance.

Communist party leader Palmiro Togliatti urged a mass rally here Friday night to show the Communists were stronger than ever when they voted Sunday.

MAY LOSE GROUND

Although the Christian Democrats, who have been in power since the fall of fascism, were expected to continue in control after the election, they were expected to lose some votes from right-wing party members who are against the idea of co-operation with the left.

Togliatti has been bidding for non-Communist votes by claiming that Italy's readiness to join a NATO nuclear force goes against Pope John's recent peace encyclical.

Foreign observers believed the encyclical was particularly important for Fanfani.

The Pope's approval, under favorable local conditions, of practical collaboration between Roman Catholics and non-Christian movements has been taken by many as an endorsement of Fanfani's policy of working with the Socialists.

ENGLISH CUP SOCCER

Manchester U. Leicester Win

LONDON (CP) — Manchester United and Leicester City today fought their way to the final of the Football Association Cup competition at London's Wembley Stadium May 25.

Manchester United, the First Division squad worth £300,000, snatched a 1-0 victory over second-division Southampton and Leicester City defeated Liverpool 1-0.

Inside forward Dennis Law, the Scottish star, got Manchester United's winner in the 22nd against Southampton.

A total of 135,000 fans watched the semi-finals on neutral grounds. About 70,000 turned out for the Liverpool-Leicester match at Villa Park, Birmingham, and 60,000 at Hillsborough, Sheffield, for the other game.

EVERTON WINS 3-1

Everton boosted its chances of taking the English League championship and qualifying for the European Cup of Champions next year by winning 3-1 at West Ham.

Everton was trailing 1-0 after 18 minutes but tied the score on a goal by inside left Roy Vernon in the 30th minute and took the lead just before half-time on

A Fair Trial

MR. PEARSON SAYS HE HAS made and will make no deals with the splinter parties of Parliament. This is a wise decision. Certainly the new government will need at least some votes from the three opposition parties but it will get them if they are deserved. No party in its senses intends to precipitate another early election.

The proper course for the government is to present the policies that it considers desirable and let Parliament accept or reject them. The proper course for the three-party opposition is to consider these policies on their merits and to give the government a fair trial. Any attempt to obstruct and harass it will be strongly resented by most of the Canadian people.

Mr. Diefenbaker says, quite rightly, that he feels free to criticize the government's policies but that the official Conservative opposition will be "responsible" at all times. It is to be hoped that he will stick to this decision but the temptation to score debating points off the government and exploit its inevitable mistakes from time to time will be hard for a critic like Mr. Diefenbaker to resist.

He has a responsibility not only to Parliament and the continuity of public business but also to his own party. It will be gravely damaged, and undoubtedly divided, if Mr. Diefenbaker tries to turn the House of Commons debates into a new election campaign.

The same is true of the Social Credit and New Democratic Parties. They hold a balance of power but will be irresponsible, and politically unwise in their own interests, if they use their power merely to play politics or enforce their own views on the government.

On election night Mr. Stanley Knowles, the ablest New Democratic parliamentarian, said his party would have tremendous influence on the Liberal government. He seemed to mean that the New Democrats would hold the government to ransom. It is this sort of threat which Mr. Pearson has flatly rejected by refusing to make any bargains with the opposition.

Mr. Knowles and everybody else in the opposition should forget these manoeuvres, for a reasonable time at least. The nation wishes the management of its affairs to go forward without interruption and will surely punish those who obstruct it for merely political purposes. In the end, of course, the government must stand or fall on its own merits but many months must pass before it can be fairly judged, inside or outside Parliament.

Skills to Do the Job

WHEN DR. HENRY C. GUNNING, assistant to the principal of the new British Columbia Institute of Technology in Burnaby, said that in the last 10 years Canada has imported five times as many craft and technical workers as have been produced in all Canadian schools, he gave new emphasis to a point other educators have been making in recent times.

The fact is that British Columbia is not preparing a sufficient number of people to exploit the potentials of the province in the new era. The province is failing in this respect at least partly through the inadequacies of its educational system.

Dean S. F. Chant indicated this lapse in the royal commission report bearing his name when he made a plea for technical institutes for those lacking the ability or the desire to continue academic courses.

Dr. John B. Macdonald hammered the point home in his report this year on higher education in British Columbia and his plan for the future. Dr. J. F. K. English underscored it to the B.C. Teachers' Federation in Vancouver when he spoke of efforts to remake the vocational schools to give students greater competence.

Dr. Macdonald spelled out the problem as he pointed to the shortage of skilled workers in British Columbia to man the machines that are replacing unskilled labor throughout the productive world.

"There can be no doubt that the province will continue to grow," he said. "Power development, improved transportation, natural resources and access to foreign markets could attract a host of new industries, and thereby benefit the life of every citizen in British Columbia. Encouragement will also come from the increased domestic market in Western Canada . . . In the final analysis, however, the increasingly complex and specialized industries of the future will be established only where there is a pool of educated human beings, trained to serve these industries. In consequence, a new challenge faces British Columbia in the years ahead."

The problem has been stated clearly by many informed people. If we in British Columbia want to advance further from the role of hewers of wood and drawers of water, we must teach and train our young people to handle the complex technology of the new age on which the world is embarked. That means specific types of schooling and widely varied courses—those that equip the non-academic for jobs that are no longer done with picks and shovels, and those which prepare appropriate young people for the higher spheres of science, pure as well as applied.

In the process the humanities cannot be overlooked.

If we fail in this effort to provide the young and future generations with the facilities for gaining the educations they need now and in the years ahead, we can have little reason to complain about the conditions revealed by Dr. Gunning's statistics.

Someone is going to develop British Columbia and its resources. We will be the only ones to blame if five times as many people cashing in on that development come from points outside Canada as are trained for that purpose within the country and province.

Mr. Laing and Parks

MR. ARTHUR LAING, WHO enjoys the confidence of a great number of British Columbians and whose selection for cabinet office has been widely approved here, has no misgivings over the necessity of protecting national parks.

They come under his ministerial jurisdiction and he encourages conservationists when he says, "I believe the parks should be kept as close as possible to their natural state."

He is also aware of the threat posed by commercialism. But parks lovers may understandably harbor some misgivings when he talks of the necessity to "fight a rearguard action against not just industry, but in the way we handle the problems raised by the very nature of the new tourism."

Why a rearguard action? Why not meet the issue head-on? Mr. Laing points to the fact that parks visitors nowadays usually reach the parks by private cars and suggests that this necessitates consideration of their accommodation in the parks. "Certain comforts, conveniences, lodgings and services" are required, he says.

In an excellent piece in Maclean's Magazine a few weeks ago an alternative to providing such amenities in the parks was offered. The writer of the magazine piece proposed that they be located outside the park, close enough to allow the motorist easy access to beauty spots, but at a distance sufficient to prevent the neon sign, the bowling alley and the hot-dog stand from profaning the wilderness.

A large section of the British Columbia public will hope that Mr. Laing sees virtue in that suggestion and, like some of his predecessors, enlists as broad public support as possible in the campaign to check, or throw back, commercial invasion.

Now Is the Hour . . .

ONCE MORE DAYLIGHT SAVING time is upon us, and in a gardening community such as Greater Victoria the extra hour of evening daylight will be well used.

There are many, of course, to whom the clock's advance will come as a nuisance. The very early risers find summer's onset strangely delayed as they suddenly return to dark mornings. And travellers may find a little mental reckoning necessary if they are to make connections at distant points.

But all in all, the annual tinkering with the clock hands has won general approval and there have been few, if any, complaints as the daylight saving period has been started earlier and carried on later in the year.

Sunday, then, will be the first day of the season to provide an extra hour of after-dinner outdoor activity. At least it will be if you remembered to put your clock and watch hands forward.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

FOR those who like an adventure, a climb along the bed of Goldstream, going up-stream from the bridge at the camp site entrance can prove exciting.

There are many pools of fairly quiet water; in other places the stream washes over smooth, rounded rocks. In places the current has cut through soft shale, making fantastic shapes.

The banks of this little stream are quite steep. In one place it has cut through sheer rock, elsewhere you can see sedimentary deposits, where there are many water-smoothed stones.

Stop and rest on one of the many drifted logs that span the stream. Observe the banks of Sword Fern that take on a bluish tinge as the sun streaks through the dense bush.

Here you can find many plants of the Bleeding Heart with its delicate leaves and drooping flowers.

Along the clay banks grows the Colts Foot, with its purple head of blooms surrounded by spreading leaves.

Some of the Trilliums are now turning purple, showing that they are past their peak. The tall spikes of the Vanilla Leaf are now showing and soon will give off their fragrant scent.

As you watch you may see the little "Dipper" or water Ousel as he darts and dives into the swift-running water-falls.

There are many Western Yews growing along the banks and their dark green needles stand out against the light green of the Hemlock.

The pale yellow flowers of the Maple make a pleasing sight as you come around one of the many bends along the stream.

There is a trail leading out to the water tower just below the largest of the falls. It will bring you out to the campsite at the railway track—an easy way after your scramble over the boulders.

FROM WASHINGTON

Soviet Dilemma: More Freedom May Destroy the Regime

THIS WEEKEND in Italy is being held the first of a series of European elections. Next year there will be an election in Great Britain, and in 1965 there will be one in West Germany. Moreover, there will be some kind of French election in December, 1965, because General de Gaulle's term of office ends in January, 1966.

Unless Premier Fanfani is upset this weekend, we shall have in the Italian election what might be called a preview of the general movement of European politics. Fanfani, who is a Christian Democrat, has formed a working arrangement with Nenni, the leader of the Socialist Party.

Until this so-called "opening to the left," the bulk of the Italian Socialists were allied with the Communists. At the national level, though not so completely in the localities, the Nenni Socialists have broken away from the Communists and have openly denounced the undemocratic totalitarianism of the Communist Party.

This political manoeuvre has strengthened the Christian democratic government and given it a good majority in the parliament. It has at the same time drawn the Christian Democrats away from the right and from the far right.

It is of great historic significance that Fanfani's action has had the blessing of the Vatican. The issue in the elections this weekend is whether the working arrangement between Christian Democrats and Socialists will be ratified and thus encouraged to develop into a big coalition of the centre.

The basic pattern of Italian politics is that the two large mass parties are drawing closer together and are drawing away from the true-believing Communists on the left and from the old-believing fascists, monarchists, feudalists and reactionaries on the right.

The same pattern is discernible in West Germany. There the Social Democrats have turned away from their Marxist inheritance and have converted themselves into a party of the left centre. The Christian Democrats are at the same time moving toward a coalition with the Social Democrats—presumably after the election of 1965 when, it is believed, the Social Democrats will have become a very large party, though they will be short of being a majority party.

The basic pattern is also discernible in Great Britain. There the conservatism of the younger Tories is far to the left of what is called conservatism in this country; the leftism of the Labor Party is far to the right of Marxist socialism.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The European movement away from the ends toward the centre reflects the practical experience of Europe since the Second World War. The feudal and aristocratic elements of continental society have been largely liquidated as a political force. The criminal behavior of the Nazis and the Fascists has made the far right, as distinguished from the conservative and aristocratic right, disreputable.

At the same time, the recovery of Europe has made irrelevant and uninteresting the socialism of the prewar era. The Socialist parties of Germany and Great Britain, and now of Italy, are no longer "working class" and Marxist. They are middle class, which includes in modern Europe as it does in this country a great mass of blue-collar workers as well as the white.

Although there are no elections in the Soviet Union, there is ground for thinking that it, too, is in the midst of political change. Mr. Khrushchev is not a personal dictator as was Stalin. The Soviet Union is ruled by an oligarchy of which Mr. Khrushchev is the boss and the leader, but not the absolute master.

He is faced, I venture to think, with a tangled knot to untie. The Soviet Union and its economy have reached a state of development where they are too complex to be run by dictation from the Kremlin. Russia needs at least a certain amount of freedom to think, to speak, to invent, to consult and to initiate. It also needs peace with the nuclear power of the West.

On the other hand, historical experience shows that it is extremely difficult and dangerous to loosen up the bonds of a regimented society. Liberty is a heady drink, and again and again regimes forced by discontent to liberalize themselves have come crashing down not long after.

My guess is that Mr. K. is stumped because he does not know how to let freedom advance without risking the very existence of the regime.

I would not suppose that he is in such a tantrum about the artists merely because, like General Eisenhower and Mr. Truman, he dislikes what they paint. He is angry because he is frightened at what a growing freedom, which is unavoidable, will do to Soviet society.

Islands Are in General Preferable as Bases

By Andrew Wilson, From London

Aden, as headquarters for a self-contained amphibious force, can probably be used for some years. But defence planners can hardly overlook the political instabilities of the Arabian peninsula, of which it is part.

The republican revolution in neighboring Yemen, the decrepit feudalism of Saudi Arabia and adjacent sheikhdoms, Adeni resentment at joining the South Arabian Federation—all support the prospect that the British will ultimately be forced to leave.

If Britain quits Aden, it could mean the withdrawal of military protection for Kuwaiti oil revenues, which now bring the sterling area about £400 million a year. It would also demolish the last vestige of the 19th Century "all red" (British-controlled) route to the East.

But would these losses be a disaster? Many observers believe a "good customer" policy would yield far better political returns in the Middle Eastern oil sphere. And the rational basis of the "all red" route was destroyed when Britain left India.

Technical developments have already started a change of outlook, even within the current British (and American) strategy which accepts heavy commitments in the Middle and Far East. For "brush fire" operations a squadron of jet transports can now lift a battalion of troops over 5,000 miles in less than 10 hours. Commando ships and carriers have supplanted unwieldy troopships, and the need of forward air fields. Nuclear propulsion, already installed in submarines, will in time eliminate the need for bunkering facilities.

Thoughts are now turning away from the great cantonments of conventional bases toward self-contained task forces operating from island replenishment depots. Among islands suggested are the British Seychelles, Socotra off the Hadramat coast, and the Chagos Archipelago (a dependency of Mauritius).

Further East, a new base in Australia has been suggested, possibly at Darwin—though this presents problems for want of resources in the Northern Territory hinterland.

Nobody supposes that the strategic switch from bases to islands will be quick or cheap. In London official policy is to play it down. But to many observers the advantages are incontestable: greater mobility and deployment, safer investment, and freedom from political embarrassments which have too long been the price of defence planning. (London Observer Service)

THRILLED AT SOMETHING SO ADVANCED

'Happenings' Provide a Parallel to the Jam Session

SOME weeks ago the CBC "Close-Up" program produced a double-feature of some interest. Half of the show was devoted to an interview with Paul Krassner, the editor of an aggressive free-swinging, totally uncompromising little review called "The Realist," which is published monthly for 10 months of the year in New York. I don't know whether you have seen a copy of this remarkable publication, but it is notable for the vigor with which it attacks everything and everyone. Most of us pay lip-service to satire, and profess to enjoy invective, but a perusal of "The Realist" will test your objectivity and broadmindedness to the point of destruction.

If you can laugh at bitter and hostile jokes about the things you hold dear, and have no reservations about what should and what should not be discussed in hot print, you will probably be able to stomach this periodical. But don't say I didn't warn you. For those who are not likely to come across it, I will pass on the masthead legend of issue number 39, which describes the review as "The fire hydrant of the underground."

The second part of the "Close-Up" program was devoted to a filmed record of the first "happening" staged in Canada, and its location was a Toronto coffee-house. If you are unbelievably square I suppose you will have to confess that you don't know what a "happening" is. (Really, I don't know what civilization is coming to. You'll be telling me you have never heard of an "assemblage" next.)

Well, what it is, in simple terms, is a translation into the field of conduct of the principles underlying the "jam session" in jazz. A group of people get together, and begin to behave, without particular reference to what is going on around them: occasionally they will take advantage of something that someone else is doing simultaneously to bring it into the scope of their own performance, and so you have a parallel to the jazz world again, where one improvising musician will frequently pick up and embroider something just played by one of his conferees on the stand.

The Toronto "happening" was not particularly impressive as these things go. One individual lay full length in an empty bath, several others sang or recited poetry of no great importance and a dedicated group of painters flailed away at a large sheet in the background. It would be naive to say that the whole business was pointless, since the pointlessness of the "happening" is an important point about it; but I will confess that there are entertaining and pointless "happenings," and dull and pointless "happenings," and the Toronto one fell a long way down the second category.

I derived some sardonic amusement from the delighted faces of the audience, many of whom were obviously thrilled to bits at the thought of being in on something so advanced and up-to-date. I don't want to spoil anyone's fun, and I can dimly remember being young myself once, but it is only right to point out that this activity is in fact a Victorian invention, and the Frenchman who really started the notions from which Dadaism and Surrealism both took their rise died nearly 56 years ago.

Alfred Jarry was born in 1873 and went to school in Rennes, where he made his mark as a pupil of equal brilliance and intransigence. One of the professors at his Lycee was a certain Monsieur Hebert, whose nickname was Pere Ebe; and this unfortunate pedagogue was the butt of school humor to an outrageous degree.

Jarry saw in Pere Ebe the epitome of all that was stupid, undignified and mediocre in the world and he collaborated with some of his contemporaries in the writing and staging of a puppet play which featured a Hebert-like anti-hero, and the piece was put on in the house of one of the youthful irreverents in 1898.

Eight years later in Paris Jarry published the play "Pere Ubu," which he had adapted from the earlier puppet play "Les Polonais." (Years after, the credit for "Pere Ubu" was given by an anti-Jarry faction to Charles Morin, a fellow-pupil at the Lycee. When Morin was asked why he had never claimed the authorship during Jarry's short but brilliant career he replied in words which mix great dignity with another element in a way I find irresistibly comical. I know Mr. Pearson and Mr. Bennett will want to give his answer in the original, so here it is: "C'est qu'il n'y a pas de quoi etre fier quand on a fait une connerie pareille.")

Anyway, Jarry managed to persuade Lugne-Poe to put the play on, and it was an immediate and uproarious hit. I use that term advisedly, because the audience reacted with a violence which is an essential part of the genuine avant-garde performance. Chairs were thrown, fist-fights broke out in the audience, and loud cries of "Another Shakespeare! A new Rabelais!" were drowned by boos, catcalls and descriptive but ungracious epithets.

But Jarry was famous. He lived another 11 years before absinthe and ether finished him off, and he never did anything to approach his creation of "Pere Ubu," which is the first of the plays of the absurd that are now the reigning mode. In fact, the character of Ubu took him over completely, and he lived, spoke and acted in a Ubu-esque manner for what remained of his short life.

Gide tells us that Jarry "exercised a curious kind of fascination. Everyone . . . around him attempted to imitate his style, and above all his eccentric way of speaking, without infection or nuance . . . The surrealists, later, never invented anything better . . ."

...REPORTING

OTTAWA—The major surprise in Prime Minister Pearson's allocation of cabinet posts was the PM's selection of Paul Hellyer instead of Bud Drury as defence minister. But it is not such a surprise when you reflect on the nuclear views of Hellyer, Drury and Pearson.

In a speech at Walkerton, Ont., early in December Mr. Hellyer called for the reversal of Liberal Party nuclear policy that Mr. Pearson proclaimed a month later.

Speaking solely as a private MP, Hellyer advocated acceptance of nuclear arms for Canadian forces at home and abroad at a time when his party's policy was against any nuclear role for Canada except as part of a NATO nuclear force in Europe.

A few days later Drury argued in the Commons for a non-nuclear role for Canada if one could be developed. On Jan. 12, after deep thought and in light of Gen. Lauris Norstad's indictment of Canada for reluctance to carry out its nuclear commitments, Mr. Pearson promulgated the policy advocated by Hellyer. It then became logical for him to choose Hellyer to implement it.

One of Mike Pearson's personal qualities is the fine human trait of loyalty to old friends and colleagues. This is apparent in some of his cabinet appointments—notably, his selection of Sen. Ross Macdonald to be minister without portfolio and government leader in the Senate, and his choice of Axelus Denis as postmaster-general.

In lesser degree this trait also worked in favor of the new transport minister, George McRae; the new mines minister, W. M. Bendickson, and the new revenue minister, Jack Garland.

These were not the prominent old colleagues like Paul Martin (external affairs), Jack Pickersgill (state) and Lionel Chevrier (justice) who had clinched their rights to senior posts by their abilities and performance. Rather, they were old friends whom the new prime minister could not bring himself to disappoint and hurt.

This does not mean they will not be adequate in their minor posts. It does mean that Pearson has given his political enemies an opportunity to charge that the new government is "the same old gang." But on the plus side these appointments have given his cabinet a solid base of parliamentary experience.

Notably overlooked is Maurice Sauve, one of the most promising of the younger Quebec MPs. The story is that Sauve unwisely brought pressure to bear on Pearson to get a cabinet appointment that appeared to be coming his way without any effort, and Pearson balked. Yvon Dupuis also made the same error with the same result.

Tom Kent, who would have been a minister if he had won election, remains a top brain-truster, along with Maurice Lamontagne in the sinecure of Privy Council president. Pickersgill is no longer an influential adviser: as the PM's House lieutenant, as state secretary and as effective minister of cultural affairs he is an administrator, an expeditor and a fixer. In the past Pearson has had cause to regret accepting Pickersgill's advice, and there is a well-concealed rift between the two men.

Mr. Pearson's happiest choice: Judy LaMarsh as health and welfare minister.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Mincemeat for the Million

LONDON—You'll be able to have a look at David Frost for yourselves early in the summer. He's going over to the States for some television appearances.

Who's David Frost? He's the 24-year-old son of a person who overnight—or at least over a few Saturday nights—has made himself the talk of the nation, to the extent of questions in the House on the line of "What steps are being taken to curb this man Frost?"

He's the compere of the BBC's satirical show That Was The Week That Was, which when it was started was abbreviated to TWTWTW but is now usually referred to as TW3.

Under the BBC's new broad-minded policy, he gets away with comments so hair-raising that, search as I may in my mind, I find it hard to recall any which would be suitable for quoting in a family newspaper such as The Telegram.

The protests pour in after each TW3 program. So much so that the newspapers carry a box score on the protests the day after each show.

Religious bodies are frequent complainers, as with the item TW3 carried on what they said was the plugging of their products by auto manufacturers in hymns, viz: the frequent mentions of Victor, Triumph, Standard, etc. Frost ended the skit by saying: "I've got to go now. Jesus wants me for a Sunbeam."

But the BBC, which is so bold now in other programs as well as TW3 that commercial TV don't quite know how to cope with the situation, ignores the protests. Frost and his entourage are given a free hand. As far as their shafts of satire are concerned, nothing is sacred.

Frost does devastating profiles of well-known personalities. Last week he went to work on John Davis, the accountant who became head of the Rank film organization. Describing him as "the man who took the show out of show business," he had torn Davis to shreds by the time the cameo was over.

He ended, as he always does after making mincemeat of someone in the public eye, by saying: "But seriously, though, you're doing a grand job."

Now everywhere you go it's "Seriously, though, you're doing a grand job—Britain's latest catch-phrase."

What has surprised the BBC—and no doubt prompts them to feel that the protests are very much a minority reaction—are the big viewing figures for TW3.

It comes on at 10:30 on Saturday nights and is supposed to run for 50 minutes. In point of fact, Frost and his colleagues get wound up and it always over-runs to an hour or even an hour and a quarter.

NO. 1 DOCTOR AGAINST COMPULSION

Ontario, Alberta Medicare Praised in Saskatchewan

REGINA (CP)—Dr. H. A. L. Portnuff, president of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, said Friday the proposed Ontario and Alberta medical care insurance plans should be used as good examples by other provinces.

Dr. Portnuff said he approves of the two plans. "Obviously both will benefit the people."

The Saskatchewan College bitterly opposed the universal compulsory medical care plan introduced in Saskatchewan last July 1.

The Ontario plan, introduced in the legislature this week, is voluntary. It makes coverage available to everyone but will not interfere with 70 per cent of the province's population, who now have some other form of medical insurance.

It will use private insurance companies who will provide a basic contract of medical care insurance at a premium fixed by a government committee. The government will be responsible for those unable to pay the premiums.

PUBLIC HEARINGS

Public hearings will be held during the summer by an Ontario government committee before the bill is given final reading.

Alberta's plan will assist persons not on welfare who because of low incomes cannot afford to purchase a medical insurance prepayment program.

Dr. Portnuff said the Ontario government obviously wanted to avoid getting into a dispute with the medical profession.

He said the Ontario plan is universal like Saskatchewan's but "differs vastly and is improved over Saskatchewan's because it is not compulsory, is not operated by a government medical care commission and there is no regimentation or compulsion."

Ontario citizens will be free to buy medical service insurance coverage from the carriers of their choice, he said.

He suggested Saskatchewan should note Ontario Premier Robert's assurance that the government will not disturb

HOSPITAL COSTS SOARING

WINNIPEG (CP)—Premier Duff Roblin said Friday in his budget speech there is official concern over the rising costs of Manitoba's hospital insurance plan.

He told the legislature a 45 per cent increase in the plan's cost in four years "is the object of legitimate concern to the Manitoba Hospital Commission" and the public.

The plan cost $27,000,000 or $31 per capita in 1959, he said, and the 1963 estimate is $43,000,000 or $45 per capita.

"Hospital costs indicate the essential need for economy and efficiency," he said. "We look to the autonomous hospitals for full support in our efforts to this end."

Mr. Roblin added the 1963 health and welfare bill will reach $39,000,000, some 30 per cent of the province's total current revenue.

Add the cost of the hospital plan and "it is obvious that this increasing impact creates its own limitation."

Manitoba residents pay for hospital coverage on a premium basis, $2 monthly for single persons and $4 for families.

There are "very real and precise limits to the extent that our economy can support the ever-growing costs of social services."

Harbor Smeared By Ship's Oil

NANAIMO — Charges may be laid against a boat owner for discharging oil in Nanaimo harbor Friday.

The oil, believed to have been discharged from an old

C-1 Park-type freighter, has spread over a wide area in the harbor and out towards log booms.

Members of the Nanaimo Harbor Commission spent the night spraying the harbor with a special chemical to break up the oil.

But the cleanup job is far from finished.

Harbormaster J. Dunham said it will probably take all weekend to break up the oil.

Stiff penalties are imposed on ship owners for discharging oil in harbors. They can be fined as much as $500.

The oil causes extensive damages. Apart from killing sea and bird life, it smears boats and damages good logs and ruins caulk boots.

All ship masters on entering a harbor are warned against discharging oil.

Canadian Attitude On Reds Not Clear

DUNCAN — Americans feel that Canada is too soft on Communism, Sam Palmer, an American and music teacher at the Cowichan Senior Secondary School, told Kiwanians at this week's meeting.

He said one reason for this opinion is Canada's sale of wheat to Red China.

"Americans do not realize that Canada's economy is largely geared to agriculture," he said.

Mr. Palmer suggested that Canada's market should be aimed at South America where the population is nearing 500,000,000.

He felt that American ignorance of Canada should be attributed to the lack of Canadian history taught in American schools, beyond the grade 8 level. A popular opinion of Americans is that their country and Canada should be united as one.

"I am afraid of too much American domination of the Canadian economy," stated Mr. Palmer, "and in my opinion the controlling interest must be kept in the hands of the Canadian stockholders."

Hospitals Council Meets At Nanaimo

DUNCAN — Thirteen members of the King's Daughters' Hospital and the hospital board are attending the Vancouver Island hospitals' regional council meeting in Nanaimo today.

Participants include: Ken Noton, hospital administrator; Claude Green, board chairman; Miss A. Jennings, hospital matron; Steve Saunders, Larry Bailey, Mrs. H. Bowman, E. M. Richardson, Mrs. R. Shiedel, C. Collins, Mrs. L. Andrews, Mrs. P. Hedley and Mr. J. Stephenson.

Board members were informed at a recent meeting that a bequest of $12,840 has been made to the local hospital from the estate of the late R. R. Bruce, former lieutenant-governor. A previous bequest of $22,000 from the Mayo estate has been invested in bonds.

Ian and I were just talking about you the other day. Thinking it's time you tried on one of our custom-tailored protection packages — our Wawanesa Homeowners' Package Policy, to be precise. Through years of experience, Wawanesa have determined the exact amount of home protection most people need — against fire, theft, damage and liability. Then they've added a few important extras for your comfort and security. For example a special provision for additional living expenses — up to 20% of the building's value — if anything should happen to your home. But no frills. The result is a neat basic package that gives you just the right coverage for your particular home. And because it's pre-packaged, there's a premium saving of up to 20% over the same protection in individual policies. See you soon for a fitting?

Strike Threat By Printers Comes To End

NANAIMO — The threat of a printers' strike at the Nanaimo Free Press was averted late Friday when 18 members of the International Typographical Union, Local 337, announced they would accept a 19-cent-an-hour wage increase over a three-year period.

Free Press publisher William J. Lupton said earlier this week the printers would strike Monday morning unless some action was taken on their demands for a 21-cent-an-hour increase over a three-year period. The printers now get $2.75 an hour.

Howie Carruthers of the union negotiating committee, announced the strike had been postponed following a 2½-hour meeting Friday.

The offer is for an increase of six cents for the first year, seven cents for the second year and six cents for the third year. It also includes three weeks holiday a year for printers with nine years' service. At present, 10 years is required.

Mr. Carruthers said the offer now must be put to the full local membership for ratification.

Local 337 has about 50 members working in Port Alberni, Campbell River, Courtenay, Ladysmith and Duncan.

The increase would be retroactive to Oct. 1, 1962, when the union contract was due for renewal.

Destroyer Launched

HALIFAX (CP) — The 2900-ton destroyer-escort Annapolis was launched today by Mrs. George Nowlan, wife of the former finance minister. The 366-foot Annapolis, last of six Mackenzie class destroyers to be launched, cost $30,000,000.

Fellow Citizens:

Once a year the opportunity comes to us to play our individual, but vitally important part, in the great humanitarian work being done by the Salvation Army in our community.

Logger Trial Adjourned To May 23

KAPUSKASING, Ont. (CP)—Defence Counsel John Brooke Friday gained an adjournment until May 23 after advising 177 loggers charged with unlawful assembly not to testify and leave the case in his hands.

Mr. Brooke asked Magistrate W. S. Gardner of Timmins for the adjournment to give him time to study Crown evidence after meeting for four hours with the loggers in the movie house where the four-day trial was conducted.

It was possibly the last day in court for the loggers, who will not be required to be present when the trial opens again in nearby Timmins.

Charges of unlawful assembly were dropped against 65 of the 242 loggers originally charged when Mr. Brooke successfully held that sufficient evidence had not been introduced against them.

Magistrate Gardner also dismissed charges of rioting against the other two because they had failed to appear in court.

Crown attorney S. A. Caldwell indicated the rioting charges against the remainder, put over until June 14, may be dropped if the loggers are found guilty on the lesser charge.

The loggers were charged after they stormed an independent settlers' camp at Reesor Siding, 37 miles west of here, Feb. 13 during a six-week strike by 1,000 members of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers' Union (CLC) against the Spruce Falls Power and Paper Company.

There was gunfire which killed three of the strikers and wounded nine others.

Divorcee Linked In Romance

NEW YORK (AP)—Public speculation about Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller's possible marriage plans accelerated today, fueled by a little fact and a lot of conjecture.

The lady linked by rumor with the 54-year-old Republican governor, newly-divorced Margaret (Happy) Filter Murphy, 36, remained in seclusion.

Just as the governor has refused to discuss his own divorce of 13 months ago, so has he refused to comment on the divorce four weeks ago of Mrs. Murphy, former member of his staff.

Her former husband, Dr. James S. Murphy, 41, works as a medical researcher for the Rockefeller Institute.

Rockefeller's smiling refusal to quiet the rumors inevitably prompted speculation.

And a rare three-week gap in Rockefeller's official schedule—from May 9 to May 31—provided an anchor of fact for the gossip.

Albany, the state capital, buzzed this week with speculation that the marriage had occurred.

On Long Island, the gossip was that the marriage would take place there this weekend.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Premier Cheddi Jagan of British Guiana says "capitalism and imperialism" are the root cause of poverty and insecurity in underdeveloped countries.

And these two factors, he said, can be present even without maintaining the country concerned as a political colony.

The left-leaning premier made his remarks Friday night in an address prepared for delivery to the Winnipeg Press Club. A general strike prevented him from leaving his South American country and the speech was delivered by his wife, the former Janet Rosenberg of Chicago who went to British Guiana in 1943 after her marriage.

The strike, which he termed "the latest attempt to overthrow my government," stemmed from opposition to a controversial labor relations law enacted this week. The opposition, he said, is based on the claim that he is seeking to set up a Communist dictatorship.

He declared the law enacted by his ruling People's Progressive party demands that workers vote by government-supervised ballot for the union they wish to represent them.

'SUGAR KINGS OBJECT'

"The sugar kings would brook no interference with their unlimited domination, in particular, over their company union."

Premier Jagan, whose country's economy is based on an economy of sugar and bauxite (tin) ore, said imperialism has "fashioned and subjugated the structure of our economies for its own advantage as a raw material base, as a market for industrialized goods and as an area for the extraction of super profits."

But while prices for minerals, metals and agricultural products had dropped by as much as 40 to 50 per cent in recent years, costs of imported goods rose by 11 per cent.

"We want not only political independence. We want also economic independence and social justice."

QUESTIONS PRESS' ROLE

Premier Jagan's speech, to an audience of newspaper men and guests, said many are beginning to "seriously question the role of the press."

"Can there really be freedom of the press under the present system? Is press ownership and control leading to thought and ideological control? Is the press opposing social change so necessary in our times?"

"...Will the revolution be peaceful or non-peaceful? Will socialists like me be allowed to bring about our millennium by peaceful means? Or is Fidel Castro's way of armed struggle the only way out?"

"...Whatever you decide, remember this: The people are indestructible. You may beat them, detain them, imprison them and toll the bell for them, but they will rise again, not mysteriously but inevitably. And we who speak for them and voice their aspirations will never be silenced."

Two Bodies Found Near Plane Wreck

WINDSOR MILLS, Que. (CP)—The bodies of a Montreal businessman and his wife have been found beside the wreckage of their single-engine Cessna plane near this community, 75 miles east of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Ginsberg had been the object of a search by RCAF and civilian planes since they were reported missing last Sunday while on a flight from Montreal to Sherbrooke, Que., 85 miles east of Montreal.

A search plane spotted the downed aircraft early Friday afternoon and a helicopter pilot landed in the woody area and found the two bodies.

LESAGE WANTS PUBLIC WORK FOR WELFARE

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Lesage says people receiving government social assistance should be put to work on public works projects, if they are able to work.

In his weekly television program Friday night, the premier said he would continue pressing Ottawa to try to establish a system to put such people to work.

"I think that what must be established is a system under which those receiving social assistance could be obliged, if they are able, to work for one of the two governments, federal or provincial, or again for the municipalities in the field of public works."

'Barbaric' Experiments Hit By Duke

LONDON (Reuters)—The Duke of Edinburgh says it is "barbaric" to carry out scientific experiments which endanger future generations.

Queen Elizabeth's husband attacked improper use of scientific discoveries, particularly insecticides, in a speech Friday to the British Association for Science Education.

He quoted from American author Rachel Carson's book, Silent Spring, which attacked misuse of chemicals on the land.

The Duke said it required a high critical faculty to inject the beneficial findings of science into civilization "because there are any number of examples of the reckless and dangerous exploitation of scientific discoveries, either for commercial or other use."

"It may be scientific to do research on insecticides but it isn't scientific to use the results until all the facts are known about their direct and indirect effects."

"It is certainly scientific to do research on particle physics but it is nothing less than barbaric to carry out experiments which endanger the lives and health of future generations."

World-Wide Weather Plan

GENEVA (AP)—The World Meteorological Organization decided Friday to set up a world-wide weather observation system to be fully operational by 1974. United States and Soviet weather satellites are to play a major part in the system.

The WMO congress also allocated a special fund of $1,500,000 to help underdeveloped countries set up weather stations to fill existing gaps in the world's meteorological networks.

The headquarters of the proposed World Weather Watch will be located in Washington and Moscow. Preparatory work will begin immediately.

Restore Lustre With Creamy Wax

Whether you prefer the new pastel shades in kitchen appliances or remain loyal to ever-popular white, one color that's out of place anywhere is the dingy, yellowish film deposited by cooking fumes. If the fumes have done their dirty work in your kitchen, heed the advice of an appliance manufacturer who suggests restoring a like-new finish with a creamy wax-type cleaner. This contains mild solvents to remove stains and dirt film. At the same time, it puts down a thin, hard shield of wax that retards soiling and makes it easier to wipe off spills.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

Q.—I have a slope of ground which is rather stony and difficult to water in summer. I would like to plant different kinds of brooms there and need various heights in order to get the right effect. Are the tree brooms suitable here, and if so what are their names? And what other low growing things can I put in to give some interest after most of the brooms have finished flowering? This is a lot to ask, but cannot find the information anywhere.—J.P.T., Saanichton.

A.—One tree form of broom which grows well here is Cytisus battandieri, the Morocco-broom. It will go up to about 12 feet, and as much wide. Flowers are in five-inch spikes of golden yellow, pineapple-scented, appearing in June. The Mount Aetna-broom is a tree form which I have not seen here. A seedling which I raised was lost during its second winter in a cold frame. Many summer flowering brooms are available, mostly of flat or spreading habit, such as are seen on rock gardens.

As companion plants, would suggest various forms of cistus which flower in June and July, varying from flat or spreading kinds to three feet or so. Colors may be white, pink, mauve or yellow. Some varieties have chocolate blotches. Some are evergreen, some deciduous.

For their first summer, all these would benefit from having a sunken quart can above each plant to assure sufficient moisture.

The energy produced by one pound of coal burned in a modern electric generating station is equivalent to the energy exerted by a man working a full week.

Well-placed trees add to landscape beauty.

Study the Value of Trees; Your Property Will Benefit

Have you ever stopped to realize the value that trees have in our community?

Trees add to the overall beauty and comfort of a residential area. They provide the relief and contrast necessary to avoid the stark, barren appearance common to many housing developments.

They provide shade during the very warm weather and protection from cold winds during the cooler seasons.

They enhance the value of any property and are well worth the care and attention they may require.

It is worthwhile for you to protect the existing trees on your lot from damage during construction. This can be done by building a temporary barricade around each one. The land unnecessary for the builder's operations can be fenced off. The construction should be carried out with the protection of the trees in mind at all times.

Immediate Shade

If you buy a lot which is treeless, it will be worthwhile importing a 20-foot tree to produce immediate shade. Such a tree will not be unreasonably priced and will be an immediate asset to your property. Trees of this size existing on the property can be moved with good success to a desired location by a competent landscape contractor.

Trees of the flowering variety such as cherry, flowering crabapple, and flowering shrubs are obtainable for a very small sum and can be planted at strategic positions to provide additional interest and beauty.

In selecting trees for planting avoid those which seed profusely such as chestnut, Manitoba maple and tree-of-heaven, because the seedlings have to be destroyed continually.

Can Clog Drains

Avoid planting poplars close to the house or sewer lines because their roots can clog drains and damage concrete walls.

Coniferous trees, or evergreens, provide a permanent windbreak to cut winter wind velocities and may reduce fuel consumption.

A few trees properly placed and not a jungle is what you want on your lot. Too many trees provide dense shade and discourage the growth of grass and plants. Only a few ground cover plants, such as Periwinkle and Japanese spurge will thrive in deep shade.

On the other hand it is desirable to introduce a reasonable amount of shade in order to protect the house from the sun's hottest rays during summer.

To save trees you must devote time to proper planning. Planning cannot be an afterthought. It must be part of a program from the beginning. Careful consideration should be given to the location and full-grown sizes of trees. Healthy trees should be marked to be saved unless they constitute a nuisance or a potential danger. Trees can be removed where they are too thickly grown.

The grade of the property should be planned to conform to the elevations of the trees in order to prevent cutting of the roots or excess piling of soil about the tree.

When to Plant

Planting of trees is done in the late fall or early spring when tree growth is dormant. Dig a hole large enough to accommodate the roots without overcrowding or bending. A mixture of good topsoil and peat moss should be used for backfilling.

After the hole is filled and firmly tamped it should be watered thoroughly to remove any pockets of trapped air. The backfilling can now be completed. A fertilizer recommended by your local nurseryman will be of benefit if worked into the top three inches of the soil.

With newly transplanted trees the soil should be shallowly cultivated every six weeks to facilitate penetration of air, water and fertilizer. Fertilizing after August 15 is not recommended as it produces later growth which is subject to winter-kill.

Remember that careful pruning in the early stages encourages strong and open growth and reduces tree surgery often required in later years.

Climbers Are Versatile Offer Many Possibilities

Jack

As far as walls of a building are concerned we prefer plants which will attach themselves to the surfaces and this limits us mainly to the ivies, the common ivy and its varieties and the Boston ivy.

Most other climbers require some form of a structure around which to twist their stems or their leaf stalks, or must be held in place by some mechanical means.

One exception is the climbing hydrangea. Hydrangea petiolaris, for this plant attaches itself like an ivy to any surface. It is equally at home going up a northerly wall, clambering over rocks and tree stumps, or as a free standing bush with gracefully arching branches.

ALL-YEAR INTEREST

Its interest is continuous throughout the year. In winter, devoid of leaves, the stems resemble those of a grape vine with peeling bark to give contrast in color.

In spring the rich green of its bold foliage attracts everyone's attention, and this alone would commend it to gardeners whether it flowered or not. But it flowers also, with flat-topped heads of true hydrangea flowers, the outer florets with petals and the inner ones like pins in a pin cushion.

Roses are climbers we commonly see going upwards, and only a few gardeners have exploited the possibilities of planting them on a high spot, and training them downwards on a network of wires.

The common Silver-flame vine, climbing species of polygonum, will cover anything, and do it in a hurry with shoots to twenty feet in one season.

To be exact, there are two of these, the one named Auberti being preferred, although it differs but little from Baldschuanicum, which is more commonly seen in gardens. Like all lively children, these two need a firm hand to guide and control their energy.

SHADE FEET

The clematis is increasing in popularity yearly as a climber, some gardeners falling in love with the small flowered species and their varieties, others preferring the opulence of the large-flowered hybrids.

Varieties may be had to provide flowers in April-May, in June, or later, and all revel in romping up tree trunks, clothes-line poles, trellises, preferring their lower stems emerging from a low shrub and their heads in the sunshine.

Honeysuckle has the same preferences, for it has always been associated with hedgerows and country lanes, its feet in the shade and its head in the light.

It is another of the up-or-down plants. The more recently introduced named hybrids have color and size to amaze us old-timers, but most of us find color and size a poor substitute for the perfume we remember in childhood. As long as memories persist, the English honeysuckle, as it is called, will be our favorite.

The Virginia creeper is much like the Boston ivy to the casual observer, and gardeners often talk of them as if they were one and the same. The creeper, however, does not cling like the ivy, it twines to some degree but needs supports and ties to hold it in place.

It makes an excellent mat when allowed to creep along the ground, and is to be preferred to many of the invasive ground covers where space is limited. At least it can be controlled by pruning instead of having to dig up half the garden to remove underground runners.

DWARF CREEPER

Both Boston ivy and Virginia creeper belong to the genus Ampelopsis for did, before parthenocarpus claimed their allegiance, and they have a relative that is as minute and dainty as they are large and rampant.

Actually it is a dwarf form of Boston ivy known as the variety Lowii, with small leaves and no desire for great heights. It is a plant for covering the retaining walls of sunken driveways if a good pocket of soil can be found in which to set its roots.

Less commonly seen in local gardens, although flourishing in a few, are the Passion-flower and the Actinidia.

The interest in the Passion-flower is mainly its legendary association with the Crucifixion and its large edible fruits, although its foliage makes a pleasing cover even when no fruits are produced. Actinidia chinensis is a twining vine grown mainly for its large and beautiful leaves. It is the Yangtze of China, said to bear fruits with a gooseberry flavor, something not seen here as far as I know.

This is a plant that adds beauty and sophistication to a patio screen where its five-inch leaves with their reddish hairs seem to change color with the angle from which they are viewed.

Other climbers there are, some well known, some rarely mentioned, but those given above will grow here and can be obtained locally.

It needs but a little imagination, and the time and the will to experiment for purposes other than wall coverings, to discover fascinating and rewarding uses for these plants that like to take places on their own.

THE WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Time to sow seed (in cold-frame, or flats outdoors) of biennials for next year's flowers: wallflower, Canterbury bell, the Excelsior foxglove, and the perennial columbine, lupin, delphinium, geum.

In well warmed soil outdoors may be sown now the seed of zinnias, marigolds and asters. Flowers will be later than from plants started earlier indoors and transplanted to the garden in May.

Rotted chrysanthemum plants will be ready for borders or cutting beds. A stake for each plant should go in before the roots are set.

All moisture loving evergreen shrubs should have a thick, damp mulch on the soil over their roots before the end of this month. Kalmia, pieris, camellia, rhodod, and azaleas will benefit from this treatment while they are small.

Annual cooking herbs may be sown outdoors: sweet marjoram, summer savory, dill, coriander. Sow basil indoors in small peat pots.

Weed rows of young vegetables by hand.

Early cauliflower, brussels sprouts and summer cabbage raised earlier from seed, now ready for planting. Sow lettuce, radish and spinach between the plants.

Pesticide Caution

For safety sake, read the label before opening a container of pesticide.

Federal law requires complete information on all pesticide labels: effective dosages, handling precautions and so on. When spraying pesticide, keep out of drifting spray. Safety experts also caution against smoking while spraying.

After spraying, wash hands and face before eating or smoking.

Curtain Cues

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI)—From the outside, curtains and draperies should harmonize with the architecture and color of the house—not attract undue attention because of conspicuous color, pattern, or the way they are hung.

Ruth B. Constock of the New York State College of Home Economics, makes that point in a primer for drapery and curtain buyers. "The windows seen, as you pass by, should appear to be treated alike," she added.

No Nose Wrinkle In New Insecticides

RACINE, Wis. (UPI)—The newest wrinkle in household insecticides won't be in the nose. Entomologists at the Johnson's Wax Agricultural Experiment Station here say they've found a new way to kill bugs quickly without leaving a typical insecticide odor in the air.

They said the secret lies in a new aerosol formula that eliminates much of the odor from the insecticide carrier. This means actual effective ingredients can be masked easily with a light fragrance.

Sudsable

Leather floor tiles—comparable in cost to carpeting—are cushiony underfoot, durable, absorb sound and can be washed with a mop dipped in soap or detergent suds, claims the Soap and Detergent Association.

Conservatives Warm Up Machine With B.C. Election in Mind

VANCOUVER (CP) — The legislature for years said his executive would complete plans today for provincial organization.

He said the party plans to have candidates nominated for the next provincial election in all 52 constituencies within a year and at least 27 candidates in the next six months.

By June 1 it was planned to have between six and 10 candidates named, including one in Columbia, represented by Social Credit Orr Newton until his death this year.

Mr. Fulton, who will not run in Columbia himself, said a byelection should be called before the next session of the legislature.

Asked why he would not run in Columbia, probably the first opportunity for him to gain a seat in the legislature, Mr. Fulton said:

"My job is to organize the party to get it ready for the next general election."

He said he has decided on which constituency he wishes to represent but will make no announcement until he visits the area.

Charles II established Britain's first state-supported research institute, the Royal Greenwich Observatory, in 1675.

TOO EXPENSIVE?

Man-to-Moon Election Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The moon threatens to affect the 1964 U.S. presidential election. A lively debate is under way on the big question:

Should the U.S. spend $20,000,000—more or less—on a crash program to land men on the moon in this decade?

President Kennedy says yes. Some others, notably Republicans, express grave doubts. The scientific community is split.

It is evident that Kennedy is following closely the arguments of his critics that too much money is being spent on space, at the expense of other scientific undertakings and such earthly needs as education and housing.

He expressed the suspicion at this week's press conference that if budget cutters succeed in slashing space funds, they won't allot the savings to things like education. Then, he said, when the Soviet Union makes another big breakthrough in space, his critics will ask: "Why didn't we do more?"

He said it would be a mistake to "arrest" the space program. The U.S. he said, had enough resources to do what needs to be done, in space and education.

SOME COMPLAIN

Meantime, a number of Senate Republicans complained that the space program threatens to cut unduly into the domain of private enterprise. For example, Senator Wallace F. Bennett (Rep. Utah) said he was informed that eventually 60 per cent of all physical scientists would be working for the government.

This was disputed by James E. Webb, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Making a pitch before the Senate space committee for NASA's $5,700,000,000 budget for the coming fiscal year, he said 90 per cent of NASA's work would be done by private industry and universities.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson is also fighting against a NASA budget cut. Space is no gimmick or gamble, he says. For one thing, he adds, it is creating new jobs, new products, new inventions of use on earth—the country is on the threshold of "an historic new boom."

Dr. Philip H. Abelson, a leading physical chemist, suggests that stress be placed first on exploration of the moon by unmanned vehicles and electronic gear—a vastly cheaper undertaking than manned flight to the satellite.

Mayor Rathie Opposes Varsity Plan

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Bill Rathie said Friday he is opposed to Chancellor Gordon Shrum's bid for donation of $1,000,000 worth of city-owned land for proposed Simon Fraser University in nearby Burnaby.

Mayor Rathie said such a move can't be made without a vote of the ratepayers, and if it came to a vote, he would campaign against it.

Dr. Shrum is scheduled to make his plea for the land before city council next week, but Mr. Rathie will be absent on a trip to Europe.

Dr. Shrum had asked the city to donate 216 acres it owns in Burnaby to provide access to an adjoining parcel of 1,000 acres which Burnaby has offered as a site for the university.

"The people of Vancouver will be paying 25 to 40 per cent of the operating losses (of the university) in any event," said Mr. Rathie. "That's all the more reason why they should not be asked to make a capital donation, too."

"The proper course," he said, "would be for the chancellor to select the best site and then recommend its acquisition to the provincial government."

"Then a realistic economic appraisal could be made of the benefits and costs to the municipalities, including services rendered and loss of taxes."

VANCOUVER NANAIMO Sailings Cancelled

Extensive improvements will be made to the S.S. Princess of Vancouver and to enable this work to be done this ship will be out of service for a few days.

Last trip from Nanaimo will be at 3:15 p.m., and last trip from Vancouver will be at 8:30 p.m., Sunday, April 28, with return to service expected on or about May 3.

The popularity of our Free Advance Car Reservations Service (saves irritating waiting in line) and our desire to further improve service for passengers on the "Downtown to Downtown" route between Vancouver and Nanaimo, have made these alterations necessary.

Panama 'Aquacade' Packs in Spectators

BALBOA, C.Z. — Not since Billy Rose's Aquacade, back in the Dark Ages, have so many rubbernecks come to gaze on the strange functions of a man-made waterworks. The Panama Canal, which is doing $100 million a year in ship trade, is also packing in the spectators. Those who only come to look get in free, but a chap who once crossed Gatun Lake, a matter of 26 miles, was charged 45 cents for his effort. The fee was based on the rate ordinarily charged for empty ships.

Travelers who want to view the canal operation can take a taxi from Panama City to the Miraflores Locks in the Canal Zone, a fifteen-minute ride. There a pavilion, built for the 1956 meeting of 16 presidents, serves the tourists. Last year the Panama Canal Company organized a guide service of bilingual ladies and gents who are on duty from 10 to 5 telling the story of the canal in English and Spanish. So many people have come to the bleachers at Miraflores that a new grandstand will soon be built.

Boat service, alas, is limited to groups, but two sightseeing dreadnoughts are maintained inside the canal and they make periodic voyages. Travelers who happen to be in Panama can telephone Balboa 1492—well, there is a sensible number—and take pot luck. The guides will sometimes allow individuals to join groups. Then, too, if you happen to know somebody aboard a ship, the captain will occasionally permit a passenger to come aboard for the voyage. It takes eight hours to slip across the wasp waist of the world.

From the bleachers at Miraflores the spectators can see the ships edge in from the Pacific. Once the first set of locks closes behind them, water pours in, raising the ship 27 feet. A second gate raises the vessel another 27 feet, at which point it can sail into Miraflores Lake. Eventually ships are raised to 85 feet above sea level at which point they cross a watery route over the Continental Divide.

Those who come by boat will see Paraiso, a town built by the French when they first tried to cut a canal here in 1880. Cucaracha Slide (a cucaracha is a cockroach) is the fancy handle on a hill which slipped into the canal in 1915, shortly after it opened, blocking the passageway. Picnickers who come to the top of Contractor's Hill to nibble a pickle while watching the boats glide by, can also contemplate Gold Hill, a bit of French fakery across the water. Here, said the first French builders, those who put money into the canal scheme would benefit not merely from the tolls paid by ships but from the gold in the hills as well. No gold ever came out of the hill, but ships that pass between the oceans pay 90 cents for each ton of available cargo space or, if empty, 72 cents a ton of displacement. The Orion Hunter, which sails under the Liberian flag, once paid $30,000 for the trip, but the average ticket costs the ship owner $5,000. Tickets must be bought and paid for in advance, and the canal doesn't recognize the Diners' Club.

It takes 32 million gallons of water, about a two-day supply for a large and thirsty city, to put one ship from ocean to ocean. All this water is lost, half of it flowing into the Atlantic and half into the Pacific.

Credit for the idea of a man-made strait between the oceans is historically given to Vasco de Balboa. For being a progressive thinker, they lopped off his brainy head. Then Charles V of Spain in the early 1500s invited the governor of Panama to lay aside his fan and order a survey conducted. Two French companies in 1880 and later in 1894 began chipping away at a cut, but yellow fever, malaria and dysentery played dirty tricks.

In 1904 the United States bought the mosquito-flecked ditch-digging rights for $40 million and the French went home. But Panama was then a part of Colombia and the Colombian senators failed to ratify the pact. The senators were forthwith knocked out of the league when Panama revolted, formed its own nation, and ratified the treaty itself. The fact that some Panamanians now would like to take over the canal is not part of today's lesson.

Four hundred years after Balboa's brainstorm, the U.S. opened the canal to world trade. In 10 years it had not merely engineered the Big Ditch, it had also conquered malaria, dysentery and yellow fever. Things are so sanitary in Panama these days that one new hotel urges tourists to drink the water. From the tap, yet.

Refurbished 'George' at Sea For Earliest-Ever Alaska Trip

VANCOUVER — Looking nearly as new as when she was completed at a B.C. shipyard 15 years ago, CN's 5,800-ton SS. Prince George which accommodates 262 first class passengers opened the local Alaska tourist season Thursday night.

It is the earliest Alaska cruise ever scheduled by CNSS in its long history of more than half a century of service here. Extensively refurbished and refurnished, the "George" is bound for Skagway and way ports on the first of 16 voyages scheduled this season. All sailings except two are heavily booked. A good choice of accommodation remains for the May 22 and 31 sailings.

A distinct change in the ship's external appearance is the repaint job done on the funnel. The familiar red, white and blue has disappeared. The new color is CN's vivid orange-red. Superimposed on the funnel, port and starboard, in relief, are the big white letters "CN" joined together, the company's new trademark.

A "new look" has been effected throughout the ship's interior which has been redecorated. Walls, carpets, drapes and furnishings have been renewed to give Prince George a colorful, modern appearance.

In clipper ship days, American seamen ate fresh cranberries to prevent scurvy. British seamen used limes for the same purpose.

Par-Trimming Round Is Gary's Psychological Needle

By ERNIE FEDORUK

In match play, you have to acknowledge the importance of psychology.

An application of simple psychology to golf is often every bit as effective as a successful 30-foot putt.

And that's one aspect that is being considered today as four golfers get ready to turn to the semifinal page of the 14th edition of the Times Vancouver Island Open championships.

The 36-hole semifinals come up Sunday at Victoria Golf Club.

In one half, Bill Wakeham plays Ron MacLeod. That's the day's glamor match. It pits the current B.C. Amateur titleholder (Wakeham) against the professional (MacLeod) bidding to retain the Times Trophy he won last year. Wakeham was runner-up in last year's final, and no other comment seems necessary.

In the second match, Dr. George Bigelow will play Gary Smith. Dr. Bigelow, a former Times Open finalist, is 53.

Smith, making his first big bid for the Island's major golf prize, is a strapping youngster of 17.

In addition to the age spread, a degree in medicine would indicate any advantage in psychology must favor Dr. Bigelow.

Yet Mr. Smith, as young as he is, was the first to apply a psychological needle Friday. He did it after touring the par-70 Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club. A three-under-par 67 by Gary would indicate that Dr. Bigelow must count on long putts as well as psychology on Sunday.

Gary Smith is a determined young man. He's a fast talker and a fast walker. His respect for Dr. Bigelow is sincere yet Gary has enough confidence in his own game to believe he isn't over-matched.

Gary Smith has twice claimed the city junior championship. Regardless of how he fares Sunday, his showing to date in the Times Open stamps him as the odds-on favorite to win the junior crown a third straight time later this summer.

He will also have to be regarded as a top candidate in the Canadian junior championship because the national event will be played on Smith's home grounds—Colwood—in August.

Now in his last year at Belmont High, Gary aspires to attend university. It goes without saying that he also hopes to "do something big" in golf.

Friday's sub-par round trimmed Smith's handicap from three to two. Strongest with his woods, Smith earlier this week was looking for an improvement in his iron game. Friday, he found little fault in his iron game.

"I never hit my irons any better," he said.

That isn't the kind of news Dr. Bigelow wants to hear today but, nevertheless, he'll undoubtedly have an answer of his own on Sunday.

Sunday's championship matches will be preceded by the handicap semifinals. First off the tee, at 9:30 and 1:30, will be Oak Bay's Alan Taylor and Colwood's George Graham. Another Colwood pair, Bill Passmore and Doug Aune, tee off 10 minutes later in the other handicap semifinal.

Wakeham and MacLeod will start their 18-hole rounds at 9:50 and 1:50 while Dr. Bigelow and Smith tee off at 10 and 2.

And for those intending to catch the matches, don't forget clocks will be turned to Daylight Saving Time Sunday.

SIDELINE SLANTS

BY

Doug Peden

Some of the fairway folk around Oak Bay have been saying that Dr. George Bigelow is mellowing as a competitor. To substantiate the claim they are liable to point out that the divoting doctor long ago tossed away his little black book.

Just a few short weeks ago they were also hinting that shooting for the Vancouver Island Open golf crown was just too ambitious a target for a guy who is heading for his 54th birthday.

Anybody who has tried to pry a buck or two loose from George in a "friendly" foursome recently will scoff at the first suggestion. Whether it is for toothpicks, tenspots or tiles, the doctor plays-for keeps.

And today nobody can be too sure about the second because there are only two obstacles still standing between the Victoria Golf Club better and the Island title.

The man who won the Saskatchewan Open away back in 1933 and tacked Saskatchewan Amateur diadems to the wall in 1933, '35 and '38 is the first to admit both are formidable barriers. First on the list is Gary Smith, the 17-year-old Colwood clouter who can slam the ball almost out of sight.

'Wind-Cheaters' Scottish Product

Gary, who is winning a lot of respect in city tee circles with his attitude as well as his ability, tangles with Bigelow in a 36-hole semifinal duel through the bunkers and broom of Oak Bay tomorrow. Winner of that one goes into the Island final at Colwood against either defending champion Ron MacLeod or reigning B.C. Amateur king Bill Wakeham, who will be touring the Oak Bay links in Sunday's other semi.

Doc will have at least two things working for him Sunday when they start swinging on the 500-yard first hole. For one thing, he will be playing on his home course, which he knows so well some swear he is acquainted with every bump and furrow on the greens and half the rocks in the rough. And nobody needs to be told he'll have a mighty big edge in experience.

One more ally could line up with the fairway physician. Wind is a familiar visitor at Oak Bay and when the breezes whistle in off the water, Bigelow is at his best. He's a master in the wind, mainly because of his ability to belt knee-high shots straight and far.

Hitting those low "wind-cheaters" is a knack he learned while mixing golf and medical studies long ago in the east of Scotland.

"I played a lot of golf over there," Bigelow recalled Friday, "and those North Sea breezes are potent. I had to learn to hit the ball low to keep out of trouble. The system suited me and I've never changed."

'What'll It Be? Buck, Buck, Buck?'

A few years ago, Doc's little black book was as well known around Oak Bay as his ability to beat the wind.

Every club golfer knows that the way to pick up the change in friendly matches is to make an advantageous arrangement for strokes before the first ball is skulled off the first tee. Stretching the truth is not unusual. Bigelow, perhaps more than most, likes to have a little wage on a game and it is his normal first-tee greeting—"What'll it be? Buck, buck, buck?"—that earned him the nickname of "Buck-Buck," not, as some suspect, his occasional tendency to buck-hoek tee shots into trouble.

If an opponent asked for, say, five strokes, George might dig the book out of his bulging bag, thumb the pages, and comment: "Let's see. Last time I gave you five strokes and you beat me by two. The time before that you got seven and beat me by three. You get three strokes." In the book, Bigelow kept a record of handicap arrangements and results of almost every game he played.

"I tore it up some time ago, but it sure served its purpose," grinned Bigelow, who has nine Victoria Golf Club titles and nine holes-in-one to his credit. "Now I just work on a sliding scale of handicaps."

Sentiment May Be Evenly Divided

It may be only a rumor that the divoting doctor headed for Victoria because snow came too early and stayed too late on Saskatchewan courses. But it's a fact that since arriving he's been one of our busiest betters, taking almost daily sessions of brisk exercise on city courses. He's strong, in fine condition and shouldn't be troubled by Sunday's 36-hole distance. On top of that, he's a tiger-like competitor.

Buck-Buck hits them far, but he'll probably be giving away some distance to Smith off the tees. That won't disturb Doc, who can be deadly with the irons.

"Sometimes I prefer to be behind an opponent off the tees," says Bigelow. "I like to hit the first shot to the green. It can give me a psychological edge because if I can drop the ball close to the pin, the pressure is on the other fellow."

Sentiment could be just about evenly divided when they start swinging Sunday.

In one corner will be Smith, the tall youngster with the big swing who has the potential for greatness. He's the kid on the way up. People will be wishing him luck in his bid for his first major crown.

In the other corner will be Bigelow, who came close to the Island title in 1961, when he lost in the final to pro Norm Boden. Doc will have support because he's known as a right guy in the bunker brigade and, at 53, he can't have many more chances to nail down that second Open title.

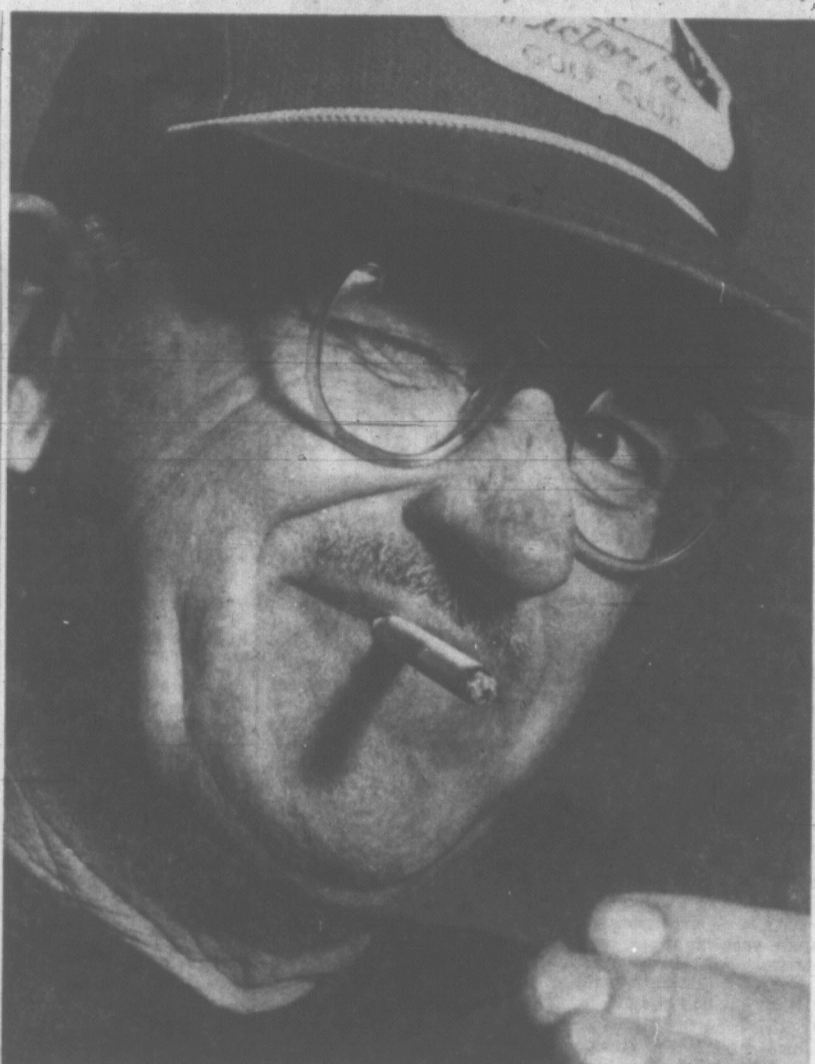

That's the way it shapes up today. And no matter which way the ball bounces Sunday, it will have to go down as a popular victory.

Giles Orders a Halt To Balk-Calling Binge

CINCINNATI (AP) — A be ironed out in a conference May 7 with commissioner Ford Frick and President Joe Cronin of the American League.

Frick called for the meeting Thursday after noting the controversy and the statistics showing only two balks called in American League games this year compared to 68 in the National League.

Frick said he wants uniformity if the rule is retained. Giles said the matters will

What's Up Your Sleeve, Doc?

Winking at world to indicate he has some fairway tricks tucked up sleeve is Dr. George Bigelow. Canny veteran hopes to put them to use Sunday at Victoria Golf Club when he meets

Milwaukee Engineers Capture Rally Honors

MONTREAL (CP) — Two engineers from Milwaukee are winners of the 4,000-mile cross-Canada rally, that proved this year to be a navigator's nightmare.

Clay Gibbs and Dick Doyen, both 50, were assessed only two penalty points from the time they left Vancouver Saturday in their Toronto-sponsored Chevy II. The rally ended Friday night in Montreal with 42 of the 47 starters making the finish line.

Doyen, the navigator, said the rally was tough. "Anything could have happened," they came home with the least number of penalties ever levied in the rally's three-year history. Rally partners for many years, they excel in cold weather competition, winning Wisconsin's winter rally five years in a row.

George Merion, 30, and John Wilson, 28, both of Toronto, placed second with six penalty points in a Ford Falcon Sprint. Another Sprint, piloted by the Toronto team of Paul MacLennan and Art Dempsey, came in third. They had eight penalty points.

"The rally this year was a navigator's nightmare," said Wilson.

Continually good weather removed many of the obstacles, such as muddy roads, that piled up penalty points in previous years. With fewer obstacles, navigation errors loomed large.

RALLY TOO EASY?

"The rally was too easy," said blonde Diana Carter of Toronto, driver of the Larkettes team with navigator Gillian Field of Syracuse, N.Y. They won the Coupe des Dames, prize for the top women's entry, driving a Studebaker Lark.

John Jones and Lou Lalonde of Toronto, last year's winners, also drove a Studebaker Lark, but finished well out of the running. The two overslept one hour Friday morning for the final Toronto-Montreal leg of the rally and were penalized heavily.

They had fallen far behind mid-way through the competition, and Lalonde said they were content to trail behind their female teammates for the Montreal run in case the girls experienced any difficulty.

A Peugeot 404, driven by Frank Curran and Ron Carney of Toronto, took private-entry honors.

Olivier Gendebien, 38, a Belgian racing ace, drove a Volvo, and finished fourth with 15 penalty points. His navigator was Colin and Don McQuirk of Thornhill, Ont., drove a 1951 luxury car, dubbed "the battered Bentley," which many had feared would never make it through the fields, logging roads, cow-paths and streams of the rally route. They arrived with the others despite a shattered transmission kept together with rubber cement and adhesive bandages.

CRAMPTON BLOWS ON 17TH

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Bruce Crampton of Australia blew up with a fat eight on the 17th Friday and fell back into a six-way tie for first place after the end of a temper-flaring second round of the $30,000 Texas Open golf tournament.

With 36-hole totals of 136 were Crampton, who started the day with a two-stroke lead but slipped to a one-over-par 72.

Tommy Aaron, Bob Charles, Frank Beard, Don January and Jack Fleck.

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP) —

Canada's improving young swimmers grabbed two more bronze medals Friday at the fourth Pan-American Games, pushing the Canadian medal total to 20.

But United States athletes added five gold medals for a total of 38 for seven days of competition.

The U.S. also has 13 silver and 10 bronze medals.

Canada's medal total of 20 is second only to the U.S.—it includes one gold, nine silver and 10 bronze—but the northern country trails the U.S. and Brazil in the gold count following Brazil's two tennis victories Friday which gave it four gold medals.

Mexico was the only other gold-medal winner Friday, also taking a tennis title—its first championship.

Gilchrist Third

U.S. swimmers won both finals Friday night, giving them a sweep of the 10 swim championships decided so far.

Sandy Gilchrist, 17, of Ocean Falls, B.C., finished behind two U.S. competitors to take the bronze medal in the men's 400-metre freestyle.

Gilchrist also shared in the bronze in the men's 400-metre medley relay, in which he swam the freestyle leg after back-stroker Ed Cazalet of Vancouver had led off, followed by John Kelso of Ocean Falls in breaststroke and Dan Sherry of Hamilton, Ont., in butterfly.

Roy Saari of the U.S. won the freestyle in record time of 4:19.3 and the U.S. medley team of Dick McGeagh, Bill Craig, Walt Richardson and Nick Kirby took the medal in record time of 4:05.6. Argentina finished second in the medley.

UBC Crew Favored

On Sunday, the University of B.C. eights from Vancouver are favored to bring Canada a gold medal. The U.S. is expected to win the other six competitions in rowing.

Besides the swim medals Friday, the U.S. picked up gold medals when its women's team won the foil fencing championship and when Capt. Cecil L. Wallis and the U.S. team won the individual and team titles in rapid-fire pistol shooting from 25 metres.

Ronald Barnes of Brazil won two gold medals in tennis, first defeating Mario Llamas, Mexico, 6-4, 6-0, 6-3, to win the singles title, then teaming with Carlos Fernandes to whip Llamas and Francisco Contreras 6-2, 6-2, 6-2 in the men's doubles final.

Contreras and Yolanda Ramirez won the mixed doubles for Mexico with a 6-2, 6-3 victory over Maria Ester Bueno and Thomas Koch of Brazil.

Cubans Beat Yanks

Canada's women's basketball team—the Vancouver Maids—fell for a third consecutive time, taking a 60-42 whipping from Chile after having been trounced by Brazil and the U.S. earlier.

Cuba spread gloom in the U.S. camp during the day, defeating the U.S. baseball team 3-1 on the four-hit pitching of Modesto Verdura. The Cubans, now strongly favored to win the baseball gold medal after having defeated the U.S. 13-1 earlier, danced on the infield and shouted "Cuba, Cuba, Cuba," after the last U.S. out.

DODGERS BLOW ONE

Bruce Fashions Fine One-Hitter

By United Press International

Bob Bruce is the kind of pitcher who makes a manager alternately gnash his teeth and lick his chops. The 29-year-old right-hander has all the equipment including a fastball that hums like a hornet. But he's knocked around with 10 different major and minor league teams since 1953 without ever really living up to his notices.

One game—even a one-hitter—doesn't make a big league pitcher but the Houston Colts have a right to think today that the 6-foot, 3-inch, 210-pounder may at last have found himself.

Ackland Placed On Eskimo List

EDMONTON (CP)—General manager Joe Ryan of Edmonton Eskimos said today the Western Football Conference club has placed Al Ackland of Winnipeg on its negotiation list.

Ackland, a 23-year-old intermediate player, earlier this week said he was blacklisted by CFL clubs because of a lawsuit he brought against Winnipeg Blue Bombers last winter.

Ryan said the club will write Ackland "within a day or two" inviting him to try out when Eskimos open their training camp this summer.

OLD FOES MEET AGAIN IN PRICE CUP PLAYOFF

There'll be no need for an introduction when a pair of Victoria and District Soccer League sides meet Sunday in the Price Cup final. They've met before.

Hourigan's Kickers and Gorge Hotel, the defending champion, are clashing for the second straight year in the sudden-death match to determine the first division's playoff champions.

Sunday's match, at Heywood Avenue Park, starts at 2 p.m.

Overtime Goal Beats 'Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The home ice advantage may not be as great as San Francisco Seals had hoped in their Western Hockey League final with Seattle Totems.

The edge failed to contain the Totems Friday night in the opener of the best-of-seven set as Jim Powers' unassisted goal late in the first overtime produced a 3-2 Seattle victory.

The playoffs continue Sunday at San Francisco's Cow Palace, site of the entire series. Seattle's home ice is occupied by an ice show.

Powers' high 20-foot goal at 17:32 of the overtime preserved a brilliant evening of work by Seattle goalie Al Miller, who stopped 54 Seals shots, including 17 in the third period.

Powers had just come on the ice when he picked up a loose puck and drove in on Seals goalie Jim McLeod.

COLLECT FLUKE GOAL

Seattle gained the overtime thanks to a first-period fluke goal. Don Chipuka's 30-foot shot was wide of the cage but McLeod gloved the puck momentarily, then lost it into the nets at 16:40.

The Northern Division champs moved ahead 2-0 at 13:33 of the second period on Bob Sabourin's rebound goal but the Seals hit the scoreboard with 14 seconds left in the period on Nick Mickoski's 35-foot slapshot.

San Francisco pressured Miller heavily in the third period and tied the game at 13:21 when Len Haley drove in a 25-footer from the side.

Mickoski's and Haley's goals each caught the right corner of the Seattle cage.

A crowd of 8,936 watched the game.

IN EMPRESS TOURNEY

Albertan Wins Women's Title

The "better half" missed out on her trophy-hunting trip but the "bread-winner" gets a chance to bring home the bacon today.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Nurse of Seattle bucked long odds but both managed to reach the championship finals to write the unique story in the 33rd annual Empress golf tournament.

Dave moved into today's 18-hole final by scoring a one up victory over Portland's Dr. Paul Zuehlke at Victoria Golf Club Friday.

While hubby was winning, Mrs. Nurse was losing. Women's medallist, Mrs. Nurse, who reached the final on Thursday, suffered a surprise 3-and-1 defeat at the hands of Mrs. Mel Phillips of Camrose, Alta.

CLARK ADVANCES

Mr. Nurse faced Pross Clark of Portland, a former Empress titleholder, in today's final. Clark took his spot Friday with an easy 5-and-4 triumph over Jerry Gleeson of Seattle.

The championship and flight finals wrapped up women's competition Friday. Visitors prevailed in nine of the 10 finals. The only district winner was Ann Dye of Gorge Vale, who won the fourth flight by defeating Mrs. G. Cornford of Calgary.

Women's finals:

Championship—Mrs. N. Phillips, Calgary, def. Mrs. D. L. Nurse, Seattle, 3 and 1.

Windsor Cheers First Puck Title

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Windsor boasts of its first Canadian hockey championship today and it may take a while before the border city gets over it.

TIME OUT! REE KEATS

"Rescue them? Darn it, Purvis, we agreed our fishing trip would be strictly stag!"

Windsor Bulldogs won their first Allan Cup title here Friday night before a sellout crowd of 5,147 when they defeated Winnipeg Maroons 3-2 in the fifth game of the best-of-seven Dominion final. Windsor won the senior series 4-1.

The fact that it was the first Canadian hockey crown ever won by a Windsor aggregation touched off a wild celebration that lasted well into the wee hours of the morning.

Bulldog coach Harry Watson, in the wild, uproarious Windsor dressing room after the spine-tingling finale, said:

'WORLD'S BEST'

"This is the greatest team for spirit I've ever seen and I consider it a privilege to be the coach of the best senior amateur team in the world." He was obviously referring to a 9-2 defeat Windsor handed a Russian team last November, the same team which went on to win the world amateur championships in Sweden in March.

Said Winnipeg playing-coach Bill Juzda: "I'm sad for my players, but I'm not ashamed. We lost to a great club."

Veteran defenceman Bill Mitchell scored in the final minute of the second period and it stood up as the winner.

Jerry Serviss and centre Irwin Gross scored the other Windsor goals. Fred Dunsmore and Lloyd Orris tallied for the Western Canada champions.

As in the entire series, the goaltending was a feature. But this one belonged to Wayne Rutledge, 21. He kicked out 28 shots while Winnipeg's Don Collins stopped 23. It was Collins who prevented a four-straight Windsor sweep in last Wednesday's game.

Windsor won the first three games, 5-4, 3-2 and 2-0 and the fifth 3-2. Maroons took the fourth contest, 3-1.

ELECTRONIC 'BRAIN'

—the discovery that gives you movie-clear Television Pictures!

Electronic Engineer's Invention
Given You on 30 Day Free Trial

AUTOMATIC OPERATION—GUARANTEED FOR LIFE!

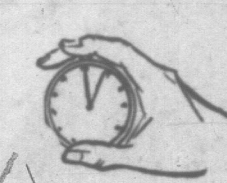

Attaches outside your set in 4 minutes...

Is your television set giving you trouble recently? Do you get blurry, light-streaked pictures... annoying "ghosts" and "snow"... distorted, jumpy pictures... wavy lines... mud and flickers? How maddening it can be to get these troubles right in the middle of your favorite program, just when neighbors come visiting! When this happens, don't blame the manufacturer... don't rush to replace tubes... don't waste money on needless service calls, when chances are that there's nothing at all wrong with your TV. Yes! These troubles happen to brand new sets as well as those 10 years old. Here's the reason why:

Atmospheric "Goblins" Kill Clear Reception

These annoying, sporadic troubles you've been having with your TV may not be inside your set at all. They often come from outside your home—on the ground, in valleys and mountains, in nearby rivers and lakes, or high up in the sky.

That's why, even if you have a brand new set, even when the TV repairman can't find a thing wrong, you are plagued with poor, flickering, jumpy pictures. Scientists now know that certain electronic disturbances can surcharge the atmosphere. These unwanted atmospheric "goblins" collide with the TV signals reaching your set. Result: you're bombarded with streaky, jumpy, muddy pictures!

Movie-Clear Reception Yours in 4 Minutes!

All you need is a screwdriver! Simply connect this TV electronic invention to your antenna lead-in. No shock hazard. No skill needed. Takes 4 minutes or less. Turn the set on. See the difference! Instantly the blurry, distorted pictures clear up. You enjoy perfect, movie-clear reception. You'll hardly believe your eyes!

Electronic Invention Filters Out Atmospheric Disturbances

Now at last you can attenuate these electronic trouble-makers... actually filter atmospheric disturbances, whether caused by auto ignitions, appliances, planes, boats, neons, etc. You need no longer be frustrated with eye-straining pictures, right in the middle of your favorite show. Yes! With an amazing electronic instrument, aptly nicknamed "PIX-FIX ELECTRONIC BRAIN", you can reduce streaks, ghosts, snow, zig-zag lines, bouncy pictures, etc. You can enjoy better reception—no matter where you live—in the valleys or high up in the hills, out in the country, or big cities. All signals good or bad are checked by this simple man-made "brain"—and it separates them with lightning speed and uncanny efficiency. The trouble-maker, "goblins" signals (0 to 54 Mc.) are faded out. But the 55 Mc. are not.

Stands Guard Against Unwanted Signals!

This engineer's invention is actually a miniature, simplified version of the giant "electronic brain" computers. All it "knows" is the difference between the trouble-making signals and the good ones. But that is enough! All signals good or bad are checked by this simple man-made "brain"—and it separates them with lightning speed and uncanny efficiency. The trouble-maker, "goblins" signals (0 to 54 Mc.) are faded out. But the 55 Mc. are not.

What goes on inside this strange electronic "brain?"

Made by Electronic Specialists

This "TV Electronic Brain" is precision-made by an electronic factory. It contains 10 different components, assembled or wired with meticulous care. Each one is carefully tested to assure top-notch operation. Install it and forget it! It keeps on guarding against the nightmarish disturbances—automatically—for life! Naturally this wonderful device can't replace broken tubes, burned out condensers, etc., but before you go poking INSIDE your set, before you spend money replacing tubes, it's wise and thrifty to install a TV "ELECTRONIC BRAIN". So low priced! And it may be all you need! Remember—even a brand new set can't give you perfect reception, unless you reduce OUTSIDE interference! That's exactly what the PIX-FIX "BRAIN" does for any set, new or 10 years old! It cleans the TV signals BEFORE they reach your set.

Cost Less Than A TV Service Call!

You'd gladly pay $10.00 for the wonderful satisfaction this electronic device gives you. But we believe in big volume sales and have priced it low—only 3.95 complete and postpaid. Over 100,000 people now enjoy better TV viewing, thanks to this amazing electronic "brain" method. Now is your chance to try it in your home—without risk or obligation of any kind!

PROVE IT YOURSELF ON 30 DAY TRIAL!

Whether you have a new set or an old one, you owe it to yourself to try "ELECTRONIC BRAIN". Attach it outside your TV in 4 minutes. Then turn on your favorite program. SEE for yourself how it stands guard against distorted, flickering images. SEE how it gives you clearer, sharper pictures day after day, even when highway traffic is heavy, even when planes are overhead. Even if your set is an old one! Enjoy it for 30 days' trial—at our risk! Yes! Prove it yourself! You must be thrilled and satisfied, in every way. Otherwise, return it—get your money back—no questions asked.

Thomas Plimley Ltd. 70th Anniversary

Seventy years ago, in 1893, Thomas Plimley opened up shop. Way back then there were no automobiles but there was a good carriage trade. That's what he sold, carriages and bicycles. As the new-fangled cars came in they were added to the stock. He was quick to see the potential of the new vehicles and in time they became the main business of Thomas Plimley.

The firm became a family affair. Thomas was followed by his son Horace and his grandson Basil. Seventy years is a long time. It's the kind of time it takes to build a sound reputation, to establish a tradition. Especially in a business as young as automotive sales.

Thomas Plimley Ltd., has been with Rambler for 10 years. The association has been an extremely pleasant one. We have benefited from their integrity and firmly established good will. The public has benefited from their fine service. Thomas Plimley Ltd., has served as a model to the Rambler Dealer organization.

That's why, on the occasion of their 70th anniversary, we are presenting them with the Rambler Award of Achievement. We wish them every success in the future and hope that our partnership will continue for a very long time.

Earl K. Brownridge.

The name of Pimley has called out to the motoring public from many business locations during the 70 years the automotive company has operated in Victoria. One of the early locations is shown in the photo at the left, while today's "plant" is seen at right. The sturdy, brick building on Government near Superior Street is now a provincial government carpentry shop. In 1907 it housed Pimley Automobile Co. Ltd., and the picture, with line-up of vintage cars, shows the stone walls of the Provincial Museum, then only 10 years old. The present location, at Yates and Vancouver Streets, has been the home of Pimley since the early 20's, but in sales, business and mechanical facilities, plus colors and electric signing, the layout is modern.

Stability of Victoria Car Firm Standout in 70 Years Operation

Goodwill and service built the house of Thomas Pimley Ltd., 70-year-old B.C. auto firm marking its founding this week.

Of course, "My father was a very good businessman, too," said Horace Pimley, president, and son of Thomas, who opened his shop in Victoria in 1893.

It was a bicycle shop, located on Yates — as is the business now — but situated then between Broad and Government Streets.

There have been many changes in 70 years, yet the family business continues to operate with a rare stability, both internal and physical, that has made the firm a symbol of the auto industry in western Canada.

For instance, the premises at 1010 Yates have been occupied for 37 years, yet the traditional portico and austere lines themselves suggestive of dependable service.

Behind the plate glass windows are employees who have been loyal to Pimley's for up to 47 years.

And as for management, managing director Basil Pimley is the third generation to take on administration of the firm, now centred in Vancouver. General manager of the Victoria unit is John F. Batey.

Thomas Pimley and his wife emigrated from England in 1892. He established his business here the following year.

Mr. Pimley at first brought bicycle parts from England and assembled them at his shop.

It was not long before he saw that the automobile was destined for a great future and soon after the turn of the century he took on a line of dealerships.

They included Swift, Ford, Daimler, Coventry Humber, Beeston Humber, DeDion, Rover, Lanchester, the two-cylinder Buick and air-cooled Franklin—the wooden-framed car with full elliptic springs.

The firm moved to Government St. as business expanded, and was now handling motorcycles such as Harley-Davidson, Douglas and Henderson, in addition to cars.

In 1910 Pimley's moved to Johnson Street, and added to its line of automobiles.

The dealerships read like a Who's Who of the industry, with names like Overland, the friction-drive Metz Hupmobile, Russell, short-lived RCH, Detroit Electric, Waverley Electric, Laing Electric, Rauch, Cadillac and Packard.

In 1906, Thomas Pimley installed the first set of cord tires in Canada. Previously, tires were made of alternating layers of canvas and rubber and were not noted for endurance.

The cords were made by Palmer, measured 36 inches in diameter and seven inches wide, and were fitted on a Daimler.

In 1916-17, the garage took over the premises of Victoria Transfer Co.

Pimley's went right on selling cars, adding names like Sunbeam, Cleveland, Chalmers, Chandler, Cole 8 and Maxwell, which later became the Chrysler 88.

Pimley's sold the first Chrysler in British Columbia—a Chrysler 6 which arrived in March, 1924, and was delivered to Harry Maynard of Silver Springs Brewery, by Horace Pimley, April 1, 1924.

In the period 1919-1920, Thomas Pimley bought Austin cars directly from the Austin Motor Co. in England. He ordered one for Frank M. Rattenbury, wealthy architect-financier whose most noted work is the B.C. Legislative Buildings.

Mr. Rattenbury, meanwhile, went to England and paid for his car in full, leaving a credit of commission for Mr. Pimley.

Times were tough for Austin just then, and the firm was unable to pay the commission, offering instead stocks in the company.

Thomas took them and later made enough on the sale to pay for a pair of fine shotguns.

When the Victoria firm moved to 1010 Yates in 1926, it handled Austin, Packard and Chrysler cars, of which Austin remains in the stable.

Three years later, Thomas died, having outlived his wife by two years. His son, Horace, then 34, took over the business, fought it through the depression and expanded his interest in British cars to allow for a Vancouver company in the 900 block, Howe Street.

This firm was distributor for Morris and MG cars in western Canada as far as Winnipeg, the northwestern U.S., Hawaii and Alaska, and by 1938 was ready for new quarters on Burrard Street, next to Christ Church Cathedral.

When the war ended and automobiles became more plentiful, the demand for imported cars became great in both Vancouver and Victoria.

The Vancouver business moved to a new location in the 2200 block, West Fourth Avenue, where it was known as British Car Centre, handling Morris, Standard, Jaguar, Rover and Rolls Royce.

The Victoria firm acquired adjacent property to handle increased sales and service volume directed by the Pimley customers.

Horace became re-associated in 1954 with the Chrysler Corporation, dealing in Dodge and DeSoto cars. The increase in volume was such that Vancouver premises were expanded again, this time to West Broadway, providing for used car sales.

At the same time, Pimley's in Victoria began selling Nash and Rambler cars, of which the Rambler is a principle seller today.

The third line, also a popular one in Victoria, is Jaguar, providing a prestige type auto in luxury and sports models.

Horace Pimley has explained that in order to provide his customers in each operation with the type of car that best suits their needs, he wanted the firms to sell both Canadian-built and British-built autos.

Son Basil, who has worked in the firm since he attended University of B.C., says:

"We think we are in a better position to offer a selection of cars than other dealers. This is reflected in our used car line, too."

Pimley's carries this type of service a step further, on occasion:

"We often buy cars from other dealers because customers asked for them," Horace says.

The contemporary merchandising, colors, electric signs and facilities lend an optimistic aspect to the sturdy, endurance of columns and arches at the Yates Street business.

"The automobile is a basic necessity to our way of life," Basil Pimley says.

"Together with the population explosion, it paints a very rosy picture for the future of the automobile business."

House That Thrift Built

There's a house at Cordova Bay that owes its existence to automobiles imported by Pimley's in the early part of the century.

Horace Pimley explains that when cars were first shipped, they arrived in sturdy crates made of tongue and groove lumber that was too good to waste. Some thrifty person collected enough to build a house.

They Came Westward On Blast of Winter

Even before the turn of the century Victoria's climate was a strong point in attracting settlers.

When Thomas Pimley and his wife came to Canada from England in 1892 they intended to stay in Winnipeg.

The prairie city was in the throes of typical chilling winter weather and when they stepped off the train they changed plans immediately.

Back on the train they continued to the Pacific coast, came across the straits to Victoria and found "home" at last.

The next year Mr. Pimley set up in business and the family firm has continued operation here ever since.

First location of the firm of Thomas Pimley Ltd. was on Yates Street between Broad and Government Street.

Pimley's first dealt in bicycles and after eight years expanded to include four-wheel gas buggies. From then on the company never turned back. The age of automobiles had arrived.

Sunday Afternoon Drive Tricky Business in '08

Early auto owners in Victoria tended to be a crafty lot, often getting a Sunday outing and repairs in the same afternoon.

Around 1908, drivers would ask Thomas Pimley where he was going and what time he planned to leave for his own outing, son Horace relates.

The elder Pimley would describe his itinerary in detail and assure other drivers he would stick to it.

Invariably, the others would leave an hour earlier on the same route, and invariably Thomas would come upon them, one after the other, broken down.

"He was obliged to roll up his sleeves and make necessary repairs for them... return covered in grease with only part of his own trip completed," Horace said.

Building Floats for Flying Boats Kept Car Shop Humming During War

The Second World War gave the 70-year-old firm of Thomas Plimley Ltd. an opportunity to demonstrate its versatility. When automobile production shut down to make way for assembly of fighting machines, the firm closed its operations in Vancouver except for British car repair work.

But in Victoria the shops were converted and expanded to take part in war production for Boeing Aircraft. This job consisted mainly of construction of floats for flying boats.

Repair work on British cars was carried on here, too, and the firm was proud of its accomplishments in those difficult days.

New parts rarely were obtainable, and often they had to be made "from scratch." Sometimes it was found that American car parts, more easily obtainable, could be made to do the job after they had been worked over.

"We never let our customers down," Horace Plimley, president of the firm, recalls. "Even if we had to go as far as putting an American transmission into an English car—we never tied up an auto due to a parts shortage."

Shoal Bay Show Day

Only the sea remains unchanged today in view of left of Shoal Bay shown as it was during an outing of early Victoria motorists and motorcyclists. The picture was taken in 1906 when Plimley cars were beginning to catch the fancy of the people of Victoria. Exotic vehicle at the end of the line is a French-built Oriental Buckboard, according to Plimley records.

Vice Is Third Hand If Used Correctly

By MR. FIX

A vice is more than a handy shop tool. It's like having a third hand when you need it. But its usefulness is directly proportional to your ability to use it well. To begin with, make certain that it is securely fastened to your workbench. Check this frequently because a vice will loosen as you work with it over a long period.

There are two basic types of vices, the wood working vice and the metal vice. The former is designed to be installed below and in front of a workbench with the bench screw under the bench top. The metal vice is mounted on top of the workbench.

Unless you intend to do a good deal of wood working, the metal vice is probably a better buy since it is more versatile and can be adapted for use with wood on occasion.

If used improperly, a vice can injure the material placed between its jaws. Learn to pad the vice jaws before working. Use scrap wood, pieces of metal or cardboard to protect the material—either wood or metal—on which you are working.

Clamp the jaws tightly, but not too tightly. Applying too much pressure will injure the material or even the vice itself. Resist the temptation to put a pipe on the vise handle for extra leverage.

Work close to the jaws to decrease vibration. Use of padding material can spread the clamping effect of the jaws and, in effect, allow you to work closer to the jaws. When filing sheet metal use two boards to pad the jaws, protect the metal and increase the clamping area. File along the edge, never across the edge.

The same advice about working close to the jaws applies to planing, sawing or hammering.

A useful accessory for a vice is a pair of pipe jaws. Cutting a pipe with a hack saw without a vice is almost impossible and without pipe jaws is quite difficult.

Protect the vice by lubricating and painting. Paint non-moving parts with the exception of the work surfaces of the jaws.

Lubricate moving parts. But be sure to clean them first. Sawdust or metal filings mixed with oil will soon gum up the works. For the same reason oil lightly. Wipe off excess oil.

Keep your vice clean. If used for gluing, make certain no glue drips on the vise. It will mar the next piece of material you put in the vise.

Woodworking vices will need their wooden jaws replaced now and then. Don't let them get too badly cut up before changing.

Try to get your material in the right position in the vise the first time. Frequent opening and closing of the jaws on the material increase the chances of damage.

Women Main Readers Of Sex Yarns

STOUFFVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Women between the ages of 30 and 35 are the major buyers of questionable pocket novels sold in retail stores, according to an informal survey by the Ontario attorney-general's advisory panel on obscene literature.

David Coon of Stouffville, a lawyer and chairman of the advisory panel, said Thursday retailers reported during the panel's investigation that whereas a man may look through several of the novels and buy one, a woman will pick up several and buy them all.

TARIFF HIKE REJECTED ON CANADIAN WHISKY

WASHINGTON (CP)—The U.S. Tariff Commission today unanimously rejected the demand of the U.S. whisky industry for higher tariffs against whisky imports from Canada.

As in a previous rejection of demands for higher tariffs against Canadian lumber, the commission ruled that tariff concessions granted by the U.S. are not the principal cause for the increased imports of whisky.

Under the new Trade Expansion Act, industries which demand higher protection must prove that tariff reductions granted in previous years were the principal cause of marketing hardship.

Publicker Industries Inc. of Philadelphia had appealed to the commission last January for a boost in the whisky tariff to $5 a gallon from the present $1.25. Publicker and its associates pointed out that the U.S. imports of whisky from Canada rose to an estimated 14,400,000 gallons in 1962 from 4,100,000 in 1947.

The commission found that one of the main reasons for this rise is a consumer preference for Canadian whisky and other imports based on taste and brand prestige.

Cold, Hard Look Due For Defence Plans

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Paul Hellyer said Thursday he will take a "cold, hard" look at all embryo defence programs initiated by the Progressive Conservatives.

These are projects on which little money has so far been spent, such as the navy's $240,000,000 construction program for eight frigates, scheduled to begin next year.

"One of the Conservatives' problems," Mr. Hellyer said in an interview, "was that they slid into defence programs without reviewing them carefully."

The 39-year-old minister also said the Liberals have no intention of trying to avoid any Commons debate on nuclear weapons.

The opposition would have plenty of opportunities, if it wished, to discuss the issue long before any nuclear warheads were in place at Canadian bases in this country or in Europe.

Mr. Hellyer said his Monday statement on Canada's nuclear expectations was a Canada-U.S. nuclear custody - and - control agreement to be signed in about a month and the nuclear warheads to be in place at Canadian bases by late in the year.

Congo Force Drops UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The UN announced Friday that its Congo force had been reduced to 13,790, representing a drop of about one-third from the peak strength of more than 21,000. The latest drop resulted from the withdrawal of the bulk of the Malayan contingent, an Ethiopian battalion and additional Indian troops.

Three Lines to Fill the Bill ... Austin, Rambler, Jaguar

They call them "The Big Three" although in physical dimensions some are on the tiny side.

They are the makes of cars Thomas Plimley Ltd. handles in its 70th year of operation—the Rambler, the Austin, the Jaguar.

The company thinks the trio covers all the wishes and desires of the driving public, and sales indicate just that.

The "never say die" Austin is the answer to the small car-driver's prayer, and is becoming more and more popular as the stand-by in the growing number of two-car families. The "850" still catches the eye as it passes on the street. Its cheeky pep has caught the fancy of thousands of B.C. drivers.

The Jaguar is the luxury automobile of the string and the Rambler is the compact with a kick.

Transmission options available in Rambler cars provide three models with the widest choice in the industry, Plimley's say.

Synchromesh is standard equipment in 220, 330 and 440 models, and optional transmissions include standard with over drive, "E-stick", "E-stick" with overdrive and improved "Flash-O-Matic".

The "E-stick" provides for an automatic clutch, and this, together with the overdrive feature of twin-stick, is floor-mounted for sports-car-type driving.

There are three main models also in the luxury "Jaga."

They include the Mark X luxury saloon, the XK-E coupe and roadster, and the 3.5 sports sedan.

The new saloon's lines are longer and lower than its predecessor, the Mark IX. The lines are emphasized by lack of needless embellishment.

Built on monocoque principles, which dispense with chassis frame, the sedan is capable of transporting five passengers and luggage at high speeds in maximum of comfort and silence.

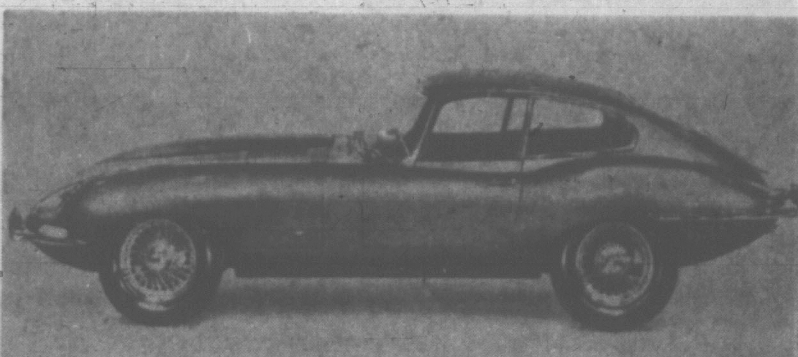

Interior features are genuine leather upholstery, deep-pile carpets, and English walnut instrument panel, garnish rails, window surrounds and folding tables in rear compartment.

Automatic transmission, power steering and a new and advanced type of heating and demisting system are standard equipment.

Disc brakes are fitted to all four wheels, with entirely independent circuits to front and rear brakes.

Power plant is world-famous Jaguar six-cylinder, twin overhead camshaft XK "S" type engine, with three carburetors, developing 265 b.h.p. at 5,500 r.p.m. The same power plant is enjoyed in the coupe and roadster, and they have independent suspension systems on all four wheels. They have twin bucket seats, leather upholstery over foam rubber, tachometer, adjustable three-spoke steering wheel of polished alloy with wood rim, console for radio and twin speakers.

One of the world's finest production sports cars, the 150-mile-an-hour Jaguar XK-E gran turismo coupe is a connoisseur's automobile handled by Plimley's in Victoria and Vancouver.

Rambler's luxury series, the Ambassador V-8, emphasizes the new styling introduced this year. It is available in two and four-door sedans, and two and three-seat station wagons. Standard horsepower on the V-8 engine is 250 with an option of 270 horsepower. Matching the new exterior styling are all-new interiors with luxury fabrics and appointments.

She's Got Fresh Look In Her One-Piece Suit

The fresh, new appearance of Rambler cars is a result of an odd combination of design and reduced outside dimensions, enhancing this auto as a leader in the compact field.

There is a lower silhouette—by three inches—and the Classic Six and Ambassador V-8 models are actually shorter by more than an inch.

Together with new construction techniques providing for more efficiency, safety and quality, the Rambler looks "different" for the first time in several years.

One-piece body stampings reduce construction error, allows 30 per cent fewer parts, more rigidity and a weight loss of 150 pounds.

Mechanically, the Rambler has a new three-point engine mounting, new tandem master cylinder, redesigned heating system, revised axle ratios and sealed gear box and rear end.

There is a new instrument panel with printed circuits to reduce wiring, alternator instead of generator, lever shift, push-button doors and parallel windshield wipers.

And inside decor has undergone thorough restyling, right up to new fibre-glass acoustical headliner.

Award of Merit

Shortly before Plimley's received an award of merit for its Rambler dealership, heads of the firm shown in photo above, Basil Plimley, left, and his father Horace, at right, chat with E. K. Brownridge, president of American Motors of Canada, who made presentation of a plaque.

Focus Still On Steel

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Attention remained focused on the U.S. steel industry this week although much of the excitement of the price increase had faded.

Many steel companies adjusted their price increases to place themselves in competitive positions, a congressional committee began a hearing on steel pricing and speculation increased about what the steel workers union will do about seeking higher wages.

The tune called by U.S. Steel, the No. 1 producer which posted the lowest price increases, was followed by other producers who made downward adjustments. The increases on steel plate announced by some companies evaporated because U.S. Steel did not increase prices in this category.

SLOWER RISE

In the early stages of its hearing the Senate-House of Representatives economic committee was told that since 1958 the labor cost of producing steel has risen much less rapidly than in the preceding 18 years. A labor department specialist attributed this to increasing productivity and a production increase.

Commerce Secretary Hodges asked steel producers not to make the steel price rise an excuse for increasing the prices of manufactured goods above actual new costs.

Price analysts said items containing steel account for 15 1/2 per cent of the total cost of living index and that if the effects of the price increase are confined to these items the upward push on the index will be slight.

Steel production kept on climbing last week, reaching a three-year high of 2,521,000 tons, an estimated 80 to 85 per cent of industry capacity.

PRODUCTION UP

The automakers, using up huge amounts of steel, kept their production high, turning out an estimated 154,000 passenger cars this week against 159,765 last week and 53,436 a year ago.

Output exceeded 2,500,000 cars for the calendar year, raising optimism in the industry that, barring a steel strike, 1963 production will be more than 7,000,000. The record was 7,131,000 in 1955.

General Motors Corp. reported first-quarter earnings of $414,300,000, second only to the fourth quarter of 1962 when profits totalled $497,000,000. This compared with $374,000,000 in the 1962 first quarter.

Car sales for the middle 10 days of April, totalling 244,887, set a record for the period. A record for all of April seemed likely.

The government estimated that the gross national product—total of all goods and services—could approach $583,000,000 this year instead of the $578,000,000 predicted last January.

MRA AND MR. K

'Kommunist', the Moscow organ which gives the Party line inside the Soviet Union, recently said this of Moral Re-Armament:

"Moral Re-Armament is certainly the most prominent association which aims to save Western civilization from Communism. It has staff headquarters in Europe, Asia and America. These people hold assemblies in Latin America and even organize Pan-African conferences . . . The leaders of Moral Re-Armament claim it is superior to capitalism and Communism . . . At a time when the morals of the bourgeois world are bankrupt, the prophets of Moral Re-Armament say that the world requires an ideology to satisfy the longing for absolute standards, an ideology able to move the hearts of the privileged as well as the under-privileged . . . They train officers, philosophers, film directors and move with 200, 300, or 400 people in strength with up-to-date technical equipment, radio transmitters, libraries . . . Not long ago they issued a call to Communists through full pages in the press. In this the Communists are challenged to take part in 'the greatest revolution of all time.' These people say the problem is neither Communism or capitalism, but the necessity to change human nature to the roots. They puff themselves up with pride and even suggest to Marxists they should change and take up an ideology that is for everybody. This is really the most bold stroke that has come from these propagandists of reconciliation and forgiveness."

As Mr. Khrushchev and his followers try to explain attitudes of Moral Re-Armament, it is important to state what Moral Re-Armament is for and what it is against.

Sexual deviants in high places who protect potential spies.

Those who bully pressmen for obeying their conscience. And pressmen who abuse their liberty by distorting or suppressing news of Moral Re-Armament and reports of its plays and books.

Communism, Fascism, or any small perilous 'ism which abolishes God and sets race against race, class against class, colour against colour, man against man, in an atomic age.

Debunkers of patriotism, who decry the past, debase the present and destroy the future; a Canada which criticizes the U.S.A., the U.S.S.R., the U.N., but is itself deeply divided.

Leaders of society and government who use influence and power to force decadence upon us — bigots who try to persecute those unwilling to compromise.

Pacifism, which seems to make war certain. Leaders who cry "peace" but create conditions that lead to war. Philosophers and fools who cry "peace" but train man to live like a beast, and so doom him to live like a beast, treat others like beasts, and march the path to slaughterhouse or zoo.

Reaction which strives to change everybody else except itself.

Steely selfishness of right, acid bitterness of left which create class war, lock-outs, unofficial strikes and lead inevitably to national bankruptcy and war.

Human "honesty" which publishes other people's shortcomings while covering up its own, tells men to get as much as they can in return for as little as possible.

Homosexuality, lesbianism, pornography, adultery, lies which say sin is no longer sin when enough people come to like it. Preoccupation with dirt which robs a nation of sweat and skill and helps to lose its markets.

Divorce by consent whether legalized or wangled.

Producers and critics who uplift grime as genius and bar those who stand for decency, faith and honour.

Human selfishness that elevates "number one" into the national idol, says all who refuse to worship it are squares.

Human "love" that tells men evil is all right, cannot be cured and so says there is nothing to forgive, and that man can manage by himself.

Lies invented by knaves, endorsed by blue-blooded and swallowed by fools which separate a nation from moral and spiritual rebirth.

Those in and out of churches who use theology, science, personal compromise and position to rob the nations of true faith.

JFK Counters Cuba Charge

By DAN KURZMAN

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy said this week that the United States had done almost everything possible short of violence to strike at Fidel Castro's Communist regime.

Replying at his press conference to charges by former vice-president Richard M. Nixon and other Republican critics that he wasn't doing enough, the president expressed puzzlement about what action such critics favored.

"If they are advocating (steps leading to violence)," he said, "then I recognize that as an alternative policy, but if it is merely a policy which says that we should do something without defining it... we deserve in a question of this importance a good deal more precision in our prescriptions for its solutions."

Exiles No Solution

Mr. Kennedy declared that he did not think that the Cuban exiles, if "unleashed," as proposed by Mr. Nixon, could solve the Cuban problem.

Moreover, the president rejected the idea of a Cuban government-in-exile because "we would want to support a government which would strike a responsive chord in Cuba itself. The experience with governments in exile has not been particularly felicitous, historically speaking."

He added "there is no evidence that exiles themselves could develop a government which would necessarily be the government which the people of Cuba would freely choose."

Mr. Kennedy would not comment when asked what policy the U.S. will pursue toward exile raids on Cuba now that 21 Americans who had been imprisoned on the island have been released.

Avoid Provocation

Some U.S. officials have indicated that the liberation of these prisoners would mean a loosening of restrictions on exile activist measures against Cuba. With the prisoners' fate in the balance, Washington had tried to avoid provoking Castro unnecessarily.

President Kennedy contradicted a statement by Sen. Kenneth Keating (R-N.Y.) that Russian troops arriving in Cuba in recent weeks have about equalled the number that have been withdrawn.

"It is our best information," Mr. Kennedy said, "that 4,000 or 5,000 (Russians) have left since January, and that there has not been an equal number come in. In fact, much, much less, 300 or 400 at the most."

However, the president indicated that only a small number have left in April, and that

SEARCH COSTS $100,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — An RCAF spokesman here Friday estimated it cost more than $100,000 for the search for Ralph Flores and Helen Klaben.

The two were found alive after spending 49 days in the wilderness of the Watson Lake area near the B.C.-Yukon border. Their light plane crashed Feb. 4 en route to the U.S.

The air force said 121 officers and men, 21 military aircraft and 14 civilian planes took part in the search from Feb. 5 to Feb. 28. The planes covered 150,393 square miles and flew for 835 hours.

The spokesman said costs for the military planes ranged from about $45 to $300 per hour, making up about $90,000 of the cost of the search.

Hatred, Fear Spread in S. Africa

By RICHARD E. KASISCHKE

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP) — South Africa has a heritage of fear, hatred and guilt conscience. Hatred is the oldest of the three elements. Fear is increasing and so, apparently, is a widespread feeling of guilt among the whites who rule the country.

Anti-government sabotage is increasing. Police drives against Poqo, the Negro underground terrorist organization, bring headlines.

But Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's government has many guns and is making and buying more daily. Furthermore, South Africa still has a row of white-ruled states between it and the wave of nationalism that has turned nations to the north over to black rule.

Verwoerd's government has quadrupled military - police spending in recent years, expanded those two forces and opened new plants for manufacture of small arms and ammunition. It is buying abroad the warships and planes it cannot manufacture.

Now 10,000 trained men are ready to smash any internal revolt or to repel any "African nationalist - Communist invasion," the reason the government gives for its record peace-time arming.

VIGILANTES READY
Thousands more can be called up on short notice. In nearly every sizable town police reserve corps and vigilante groups could spring into action the moment the new country-wide commando - police communications network spreads an alarm.

The militant determination of Verwoerd's Afrikaner nationalists is repeatedly expressed with bluntness: To hold vast and enormously rich South Africa as a last redoubt of "Christianity and western civilization against a reversal to primitiveness and chaos."

Backing up Verwoerd is his tough minister of justice, Balthazar Vorster. He is regarded as the No. 2 man, swinging the cudgels at alleged saboteurs and subversives, black and white. White liberals say Vorster is one of the biggest obstacles to some facing possible death sentences.

DAUBING OF ANTI-GOVERNMENT slogans in public places is punishable by six months in prison.

Slogan painters working at night use indelible paint for "Hang Vorster" and "Vorster is a Nazi" signs on bridges and walls in Johannesburg, Cape Town and Durban.

Vorster's reply to charges of repressive laws and actions is: "I have no apologies. I get my power from a democratically elected parliament."

It is Nationalist-controlled and white-dominated.

ONLY BY FORCE

Dr. Jan Seytler, leader of the opposition Progressive party, charges recently that the Verwoerd government can maintain the present situation only on a basis of force.

The liberal-minded Johannesburg Star, an English-language paper, says power is not enough and efforts must still be made toward some kind of racial harmony.

Laurence Gandar, editor of the Johannesburg Rand Daily Mail, sees the present trend as tragic. He says the Verwoerd Afrikaners, having failed to achieve unity with English-descended whites, now are "forcing this unity on a war footing - against the black menace."

West Germany is the fourth largest importer of United States goods, taking some $1,500,000,000 annually.

SILVER SPURS award for the top western television star of the year, as chosen by critics and columnists, was won by Lorne Greene, the "Ben Cartwright" of the "Bonanza" series. Presentation will be made at Reno May 25 by Nevada Governor Grant Sawyer.

Arthur Mayse

Once or twice a year I forget about the so-important errands, the lineup of jobs waiting to be done, and set out to reaffirm a conviction of many years standing.

This is that in spite of high-rise sears and other disfigurements being inflicted in the name of progress, Victoria remains Canada's fairest city.

My Victoria, which is considerably larger than the map indicates, begins in navy country at Esquimalt and ends where Saanich Peninsula points bluff bows toward Salt Spring Island and Cowichan Gap. West away, it ambles past Gorge and Goldstream to the Malahat summit and a view so noble that familiarity fails to diminish it.

South, my city ranges out past Beacon Hill's golden cliffs to straits which today are a swatch of pale blue satin and tonight will be an ebony ribbon between the Dallas Road lights and Port Angeles shimmering spangle.

Southeast to northeast lie the islands great and small. Trial with its legend of rum-runners' liquor sacks planted under the cabbages in a lightkeeper's tidy garden. Jimmy Chicken in Oak Bay—or Mary Todd if any precisionist insists—then the stepping stones of the Chain group, and the Indian Chatham from Strongdown down to Discovery where moonlight sets the little brown rabbits frolicking.

Victoria is richly blessed with islands.

The heart of this town which I first discovered as a small boy and adopted as soon as my fates would allow, is wherever one chooses to locate it.

Beacon Hill-Park for some. For others the Causeway or our greystone Legislative Buildings back of their incredibly green lawns, or the wide downtown streets laid out by planners with more artistry and vision than our present crew.

To very many of us, in this city without slums, Victoria means a garden.

Butchart's in its splendidly transfigured quarry is a marvel to the eye, but for me too grand. When I go there, which is only when our Symphony Orchestra moves outdoors or when I have visiting firemen from less-favored parts in tow, my chief delight is to spot a weed in an otherwise immaculate border.

I prefer the smaller—but not necessarily humbler—gardens; and in these, what city can match Victoria?

If you have never gone the Spring Garden Tour circuit, I urge you to do so. Here you will meet the true gardening fanatic who sleeps with trowel under pillow, and allots compost from labelled bins where the humus is stored carefully as wines in a cellar.

But I'll settle for any Victorian garden, and am happiest in such less-than-perfect retreats as my own, where a flourishing weed is sometimes staked by error, and the grass too often needs cutting.

It is perhaps significant that of all cities I've had to do with, the native son occurs here most frequently. Tragedy may overtake him in the shape of a forced removal; you've seen those pathetic "Owner forced to sell" ads that we sometimes print, reluctantly, in our classified columns. But the expatriate Victorian sooner or later accomplishes a return.

Mainlanders inspired by jealousy like to lampoon us, and we aren't above poking fun at ourselves on occasion. We are not, however, stuffy.

In plain fact, Victoria is a much more cosmopolitan and sophisticated place than our tinny Gastown-on-Burrard. What deceives the outsider is Victoria's studied artlessness, the instructed simplicity that never would accept the automobile as a status symbol. Here, we recognize a lady's quality even when she crouches in rumpled jeans and mulch gloves with her nose furrowing our rich black earth.

We have our saints and our sinners, both high-styled and low. Even these, though, are subtly different from their counterparts elsewhere. True Victorians, they let those who prefer the middle path to do so with a minimum of interference.

Newspaper space is too precious to waste on love-sonnets to a city. But with tulips replacing the daffodils, with cherry blossom tumbling about the flowering plum, with campanula a blue cascade and Mount Baker a ghost peak glimpsed through scented April air and this my city at its loveliest, I just can't help sounding off!

... but Sussexvale steams again

SOMEBODY STOLE THE STEERING WHEEL

Frigate Left in Helmless State

By AB KENT

There's a free-wheeling gang operating at HMC Dockyard—they pinched the ship's steering wheel from frigate HMCS Sussexvale some time Friday.

It was still missing at noon today. A man could be thrown into steerage for this. Or sent to bash the square. While the RCMP and RCN security men are investigating in the event of genuine theft, a naval spokesman said it is probably due to a rival ship's raid.

A big wheel in the information service said it was only a small wheel—about 30 inches across, weighing about 30 pounds, made of wood, navy issue type—taken from its compartment directly below the bridge.

Anyway, it was replaced in time for the ship to make a scheduled dependent's day cruise in local waters today.

The spokesman said: "While deploring the fact that a theft had been committed, senior naval officers ruefully admitted that although normal security measures would preclude an unauthorized person gaining access to the steering compartment, uniformed personnel from within the ship or from other ships could do so. "As the annals of the navy are filled with sagas of inter-ship raids, this was considered a strong possibility, the act possibly being perpetrated by an enthusiastic but misguided 'raiding team.' "They were probably conned into it.

"Well-planned and carefully executed operations of similar nature have been renowned in the past," the statement concluded. Divers were sent down to search the bottom of Sussexvale's berth, but all they got was wet.

EXPERIMENT

Would-Be Non-Smokers In Seminar

An experimental clinic for people who have difficulty giving up smoking will be held at a Non-Smokers seminar to be held in the Saanich Health Centre, Vernon Ave., May 15-17.

Health Minister Eric Martin has been invited to open the seminar and speakers will include medical men and church ministers. "We hope to get a good cross-section of opinion on the dangers of smoking," said Robert Ludwig, secretary-treasurer of the Non-Smokers' Association of Canada, who is in Victoria to organize the seminar.

TOXIC TARS

Mr. Ludwig declared cigarette filters "do not filter anything."

"Most doctors are agreed that filters do not exclude toxic tars or any of the injurious substances contained in cigarettes," he said. "That is why we are campaigning against smoking in general and cigarette smoking in particular."

Suspended Sentence

Margaret Devant, 427 Linden, was given a six-month suspended sentence when she appeared in Oak Bay police court Friday on a charge of false pretences involving a stolen bond.

The accused had been in jail for six weeks during progress of her trial.

"DO OR DIE" attempt to save this driver's life was made by unidentified man shown trying to stop profuse bleeding. Arthur Irving, 564 Paradise Street, received injuries in accident on Richmond Road early today.

He barely had a pulse when rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital. Immediate blood transfusions revived him and he is reported now to be in "fairly good" condition. (Photo by Robin Clarke).

High-Speed Police Chase Defended

A woman bystander who watched police cars pursue a stolen car driven by escapees from the Brannan Lake detention school has taken issue with allegations that the police drove recklessly in the chase.

Mrs. F. C. Johnson, of Saanich, flatly contradicted allegations by Lawrence Wyatt, 106 Burnside, who said that police vehicles exhibited "unnecessary and reckless disregard" for the children in the area.

"I rather resented that," Mrs. Johnson told The Times today. "We're very lucky people that there weren't 14 or 15 children killed by those crazy goons in the stolen car."

Mrs. Johnson was on her way to catch a bus for home when she heard the sirens and turned around to watch the chase.

FULL CONTROL

"The police were driving very carefully," she said. "Sure, they were driving fast, but they had full control of their cars at all times. They were driving well."

Five police cars from three municipal police forces were involved in the high-speed chase Thursday afternoon that ended when the stolen car in which the escapees were riding slammed into the wall of a house at Cadillac and Seaton after failing to make a turn.

The escapees, both juveniles from the Victoria area, had walked away from the minimum security detention school near Nanaimo sometime on Wednesday.

IN CUSTODY

They were taken into custody after the chase. Bystanders later told reporters that police cars had skidded around corners and sprayed gravel over children.

Driver's Throat Cut in Collision

Twenty-year-old Arthur Irving, 564 Paradise St., had his throat cut when an impaired driver crashed into his car this morning just minutes after Irving himself had collided with a parked vehicle.

Irving barely had a pulse when he was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital. Immediate blood transfusions saved his life and today he is reported in "fairly good" condition.

Irving ran into a car parked outside 2910 Richmond at 1 a.m.

A few minutes later a car driven by W. R. Heighes, 1855 Fairburn, struck Irving's car and knocked his head through the windshield, Saanich prosecutor Ken Murphy said.

A bystander at the scene, Clifford Kepner, 18, of 132 Ontario, was struck in the accident and knocked across the road.

Last Rounds In Tax Bout Next Week

By JOHN MIKA

City council begins final work Tuesday on fashioning a budget and setting the mill rate.

Odds still are that when all the axe-swinging is over, the tax rate will be only slightly above last year's total of 55 mills.

And there's still an outside chance that aldermen will decide on packaging a capital works bylaw to refer to the ratepayers for approval—which conceivably could result in a slight tax cut this year.

Both these possibilities loom despite a 2.5 mill increase in the school tax this year and a one-mill addition to cover wage increases for the civic unions.

Worst expected would be an approximate tax boost of about two mills.

This would eat up only half of the $20 increase in the homeowners' grant.

HOME GRANT

But city council can't afford to consider the homeowners' grant as a cushion against civic taxes because about half of the assessment—in commercial and industrial properties—will have to bear the full brunt of any boost.

And whatever the final rate is, downtown property owners will have to pay an estimated 4.5 mill assessment extra this year to subsidize the first year operation of the parking garages. However, they may get all or part of this back in subsequent years if the car parks earn a surplus when fully operational.

Here's the background for Tuesday's start on the budget.

$776,000 CUT

A total of $776,000 was cut from preliminary estimates by committees leaving council to deal with a $437,000 increase in its main budget over last year's expenditures.

Virtually all of this increase is liable to be axed and even more than that might be cut if a capital works budget is devised for long-term borrowing to build several needed projects.

Even so, there inevitably will be an expenditure increase on the order of four mills from the combined weight of school, wage, police, health department increases and the city's $40,000 share of the new juvenile detention home under construction.

ADDED REVENUE

However, the city can expect to offset some $288,000 from additional revenue in the form of normal assessment growth, improved tax collection factor, provincial grants in lieu of taxes, a large surplus and other sources.

That would total about 3.2 mills of revenue more than last year.

So council likely will wind up ordering an increase of something under one mill in the taxes—plus any new projects it might undertake; or minus the amount that would spread out into a 20-year mortgage through debenture borrowing for capital works.

Saanich peninsula gardens including the famous Woodwynn Farm—can be seen on a tour May 4. There will be another tour to the Victoria gardens the same afternoon.

In addition to these gardens, there are many others not on the tour routes that may be visited between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. on the three days of the festival.

Topics of the Day

Frederick J. W. Oak, who says he has worked out a method of getting salmon to spawning grounds above hydro electric power developments, will explain how it can be done to the members of the Amalgamated Conservation Society at the British Public School Club, Langley Street, Monday, at 8 p.m.

A rider on a runaway horse fell off and injured his leg at Cedar Hill Cross Road and Finnerty Road shortly after 9 a.m. today.

Rick Woodrow, 16, of 1010 Linden Avenue, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with a suspected leg fracture.

He had left Victoria Riding Academy when a car scared his mount. It took off out of control and ran down Finnerty.

As it crossed the intersection at Cedar Hill the horse slipped and its rider fell. Oak Bay police took him to hospital.

3,000 Awed By Car Show At Esquimalt

Close to 3,000 people blinked their eyes at dazzling chrome work and flashings on 34 hot rods and custom-built automobiles Friday evening at the opening of Victoria Quarter-Milers' "Autorama '63."

Also on display at the show, housed in Esquimalt Sports Centre until 11 tonight, are two motorcycles and a dragster from Vancouver which has a time of 9.1 seconds in the quarter mile. This machine has been clocked at speeds up to 169 miles per hour when finishing a quarter mile run.

All cars on display are in drivable condition with the exception of The Jewel, owned by Dave Whitehead of Victoria.

"The Jewel would have to lose some of its chrome work before it could go on the road," a Quarter-Miler spokesman said.

Trophies, totalling $650 will be awarded by car show queen Jill Nielson, 17, tonight at 9 and a draw for a 1954 Ford hardtop will take place at 10 p.m.

AHEAD, AHEAD, NOT BACK, BUT AHEAD

This is your last warning. PUT YOUR CLOCK ONE HOUR AHEAD WHEN YOU GO TO BED TONIGHT.

Daylight saving time starts in the early hours of Sunday morning, so be prepared. It ends Oct. 27, when the clocks go back an hour.

Victoria Branch, United Nations Association in Canada, will hold its annual meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria of the Douglas Building.

Speaking on "Scientific and Technical Assistance for Developing Countries" will be Dr. John F. McCreary, dean, faculty of medicine, University of B.C.

Cerebral Palsy Association of Lower Vancouver Island will hold its annual meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Oak Bay Municipal Hall.

Speaking on "Vocational Planning for the Cerebral Palsied" will be A. J. Bowers, director, vocational services, polio and rehabilitation foundation of B.C.

The Order of Job's Daughters, Bethel 27, will hold a church parade in First Baptist Church Sunday morning.

SECURITIES COMMISSION MEMBER NAMED

British Columbia legislative counsel Gerry Cross has been appointed vice-chairman of the three-man B.C. Securities Commission.

William Irwin, commission chairman, said Friday Mr. Cross will replace Robert Greig who has retired to re-enter private law practice.

Mr. Cross, who is 41, will retain his position as legislative counsel. Third member of the commission is William Peck.

The commission was established last July 1 to register and supervise sale of securities within the province. Prior to that time the department was operated by a superintendent of brokers.

LEARN BY DOING — AND NO TUITION FEE

Garden City Schooling for Garden Experts

By PETE LOUDON

Almost 100 years ago, spirited young Victoria men labored without pay on what are now Government House grounds.

Linked together, they sweated out the minor sins that brought them afool of the law and the Victoria chain gang. And they built a roadway up the steep bluff that overlooks Fairfield.

Today again, 15 young men are laboring without pay in the same area, this time creating a new five-acre garden development.

But they are linked together only by a love in their work and the hope of one day being referred to as graduates from Canada's finest school of gardening.

The young men, aged 18 to 22, are members of the first class in a new provincial government plan to answer a serious shortage of garden experts.

"We've searched right across Canada and in England for thoroughly-trained people," said an official of the public works department.

"Finally we decided that with Victoria's garden reputation and the fact that the Pacific Northwest produces more garden species than any other place on the continent, we should be turning out the best gardeners. That is the aim of the course."

The course is sponsored by the department of education, vocational training department and there is no tuition fee.

For five months, applicants selected for their potential (they require only grade 10 education) receive classroom and outdoor instruction under W. J. Steel of the education department and Victoria area provincial gardening superintendent, Leonard Butterworth.

They have a classroom in Government House basement and get their practical instruction in one of the finest gardens in B.C. On completion of this phase of their training the department will place them with various employers as apprentices, for four years additional on-the-job training.

During this period, they will earn up to $250 a month but can be raised to journeyman status, earning about $325, after two years. The potential earnings at present hover around $400 a month but additional wages are available through advanced training in fields such as garden design.

Government officials hope one day to produce gardeners as famed around the world as the graduates of the course given in London's famous Kew Gardens.

There 20 men are trained each year. And even the B.C. government has discovered it is impossible to readily enlist a man from Kew.

Women Urge Pope to Form A 'Secretariat of Peace'

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—A scarred survivor of Hiroshima was among women pacifists from the United States and 13 other nations that urged Pope John to establish a "secretariat of peace" to help save the world from war, Wednesday.

Sixty members of the Women Strike for Peace attended a general audience in St. Peter's Basilica and heard the Pontiff describe his Easter encyclical plea for peace on earth as "a torch for the men of our times."

The women submitted a message to the Pope pledging their "support and concern" for efforts to maintain peace. They told the Pope they were "impelled by your inspiring leadership and most particularly your Easter encyclical."

The women included Youko Miriki, who bears the scars of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima in 1945.

An American member, Mrs. Alice Pollard of Hanover, N.H., said, "We were very pleased because the Pope spoke on peace again today."

The Women Strike for Peace is an international group of all faiths which urges an end to the arms race and nuclear testing.

Prepare to Put Show 'On the Road'

Most women's organizations will soon be closing their minute books for a well deserved summer recess. Fall programs have been discussed and topped the agenda for several hard working groups in an autumn fashion show.

If you suddenly find yourself appointed convener of such a project there are a few things to consider before the summer recess.

You cannot have a show without clothes, so your first step is to approach a retailer who will lend his merchandise for a style show.

Tell him about your group and what you plan to do with funds raised.

Remember he is doing you a big favor. A fashion show is hard on his merchandise—especially if you are using club members as models rather than professional mannequins.

Decide on a date with the store manager. He knows when he has the required merchandise for a good showing.

Location is your next problem.

It should be decided immediately as many satisfactory places are booked months ahead.

It is understood that expenditure be kept to a minimum but beware false economy. The person who holds your whole show together when it finally goes on before an audience is the commentator and she should be experienced.

A professional commentator, if paid an adequate fee, will often help the convener with co-ordination of costumes and may lend an hour or two of her time to help club members walk the plank (model on a stage or runway).

If the show is to be an extravagant one it is wise to have several experienced models to work with aspiring amateurs.

Price of tickets depends on the type of show. Are you going to have food? Will you require catering service? Attend to the details I have mentioned before your first fall meeting and you will be well on your way to a successful fashion show. Good luck!

Temperance Week Marked

Mrs. Hitchcock, who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips while in Victoria, travelled from here to Nanaimo and Port Alberni to speak at several meetings.

How to Impress People—And Annoy Your Friends

By PENNY SAVER

No doubt you have been on a trip with a friend who seemed to take delight in casually tossing off such remarks as "Isn't that castilleja coccinea lovely?" You are immediately startled and you look frantically about for some weird creature. At last your eyes focus on the object at the end of your friend's finger. There it is, nothing more than a few stalks of Indian paintbrush.

These same people can walk through the woods and never utter a word of English.

For those who would like to acquire this gift of foreign words Penny has discovered a one dollar vest pocket book on wild flowers, beautifully illustrated in color with full descriptive details of habitat—and of course, their Latin genus.

Penny can hardly wait to pass a skunk cabbage so she can announce, "the aroma of the symplocarpus foetidus is rather pungent." That is, if she doesn't forget her lines, but of course there is always the handy pocket book for quick reference.

Who knows, Penny may turn into a horticulturist, especially if she starts reading the garden book she saw priced at $4.95.

This book, written for the man or woman who is interested in really getting their hands in the earth to create an honest-to-goodness garden, is 99 per cent English.

One thing that makes this a book for the outdoor gardener and not the armchair philosopher is the washable cover. If you are a novice you will probably want this book close at hand for frequent consultation.

It really is an all-inclusive book. Why there is even a chapter devoted to watering. (Penny always thought you watered the garden or you didn't water it—but there is more to it than that.)

Another wonderful book of interest to many local residents is one published by the provincial government on heathers. Price—65 cents.

That's only a start. Penny has more to say about books later. But in the meantime if you would like to look for yourself phone her at 382-3131.

Next district council meeting will be held in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, Mills Road, Sidney, at 1:30 p.m., on May 24. Auxiliary members should contact secretaries soon for transportation.

DEAR ABBY

Loosen the Strings, Mom!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We are parents of a 16-year-old daughter who thinks we are being too strict with her. She told us she is embarrassed before her friends because the rules we have imposed on her make it appear that we don't "trust" her. We love this child, and we don't want any harm to come to her. She is physically and spiritually beautiful and we want to keep her that way. She is a steady church-goer, honor student and is well liked. We allow her to go to all school functions (if one of the parents drives), but she's not to go in cars with boys, or single date. She may have girl friends stay the night with her, but she isn't allowed to sleep away from home. Do you think we are too strict?

A MOTHER WHO DOES HER BEST

DEAR MOTHER: A responsible 16-year-old girl should be permitted to date and go in cars with boys, and even spend a night at a girl friend's home. I would say that she has earned your trust and will not disappoint you.

DEAR ABBY: Does one send a wedding invitation to the groom's parents? It seems so cold—as though they were outsiders. How do they get invited? Does the bride ask them?

NEEDS TO KNOW
DEAR NEEDS: The groom's parents would appreciate a formal invitation to keep as a souvenir. Otherwise their presence is assumed, naturally.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a 13-year-old boy. He is extremely sensitive, easily hurt and is frequently moved to tears. His teacher told me that his greatest handicap is his exceptional good looks. The girls adore him and the boys envy him for that. His IQ approaches the genius level, which also makes him unpopular. The boys at school have roughed him up on several occasions. When I complained to the principal, he told me it was "boy stuff" and my son should learn to defend himself. I refuse to encourage my son to be a roughneck like the others. I'm a widow and he is my only child. What do you suggest?

Record Set at Ball

The largest crowd to attend the "Firemen's Ball" in many years filled the Crystal Ballroom of the Empress Hotel on Friday evening when more than 700 guests danced at the 48th annual ball of the Victoria Fire Department.

Pipe Major Frank Knight and pipers and drummers of the Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's) Regiment wore full dress uniform as they preceded the grand march.

To the strains of "Meeting of the Waters" and "Scotland, the Brave," Mayor R. B. Wilson and Mrs. John Abbott led the parade.

Behind them, in his first social function since his takeover of command, was Fire Chief Abbott and Mrs. Wilson.

Mrs. Wilson wore a floor-length chiffon gown in smoky blue shade that was accented with a wide belt, decorated with crystal beading.

An artistic silhouette of Victoria's skyline at night was backdrop for stage where Charlie Hunt's orchestra played for dancing. A huge cluster light standard from which hung baskets filled with colorful arrangement of spring flowers, flanked each side of the stage.

A "flower bed" of narcissi and greenery, edged with a miniature fence, completed decor.

Later in the evening, the Empress dining room and the Georgian Lounge were filled to capacity as guests enjoyed a buffet supper.

Master of ceremonies was Richard Warner and manager of the ball, Daryl Woodburn.

Don Thompson was in charge of decorations and Lieut. Harry Marion, the reception for special guests. Also on the committee were George Robertson and William Jones, president of the Mutual Benefit Society.

Proceeds from the ball will be used for the society's charitable work.

ROSE BOWL, held by awards chairman Mrs. J. M. Gayfer, is focus for contenders Marion Matcham, Pamela Paver, Merna Jenkin (winner) and Allan Husband. Bowl is top vocal trophy.

ROSE BOWL AWARDED

Festival Honor Program Reveals Superior Standard

By AUDREY S.D. JOHNSON
The honor program with which the first week of the Greater Victoria Music Festival concluded Friday night, was described by British adjudicator Dr. Sydney Northcote as setting a standard comparable with anything he had heard.

Representing the best of the piano and vocal classes, the program covered a wide range, both in age categories and styles and kinds of performance.

Both adjudicators in their farewell remarks, charged the large audience at Central Junior High School, to realize the value of the festival and the quality and quantity of the talent that exists in this city.

"You must make sure that it is not wasted, that these young people are given the fullest opportunities," said piano adjudicator Guy Jonson.

Chairman for the program was Dr. J. F. K. English, festival treasurer.

In the evening's only competition, the Rose Bowl, major vocal trophy, was awarded by Dr. Northcote to dramatic soprano Merna Jenkin for her performance of Mennikov's "Hills of Gruzia" and an aria from "La Serva Padrona."

The other three contenders were Pamela Paver, Marion Matcham and Allan Husband. Other major trophy, the City of Victoria Medallion, went unclaimed this year as none of the senior grade pianists had come up to the standard set by Mr. Jonson.

This does not mean that there is not plenty of promise, only that the present crop of budding keyboard artists is not quite ready for a medalion contest.

Taking part in the honor program were the Patterson Family Ensemble, Vera Barclay Primary Studio Choir, Bruce and Rosemary Fryer, winners of the Intermediate Piano Duet class, speech artist Timothy Vernon who retains the honor of the highest mark in the festival—95, the Vera Barclay Singers, vocalists Laura Groos, Richard Wood, Rino Elverhoy, Heather Tucker and Roy Silver, and pianists Becky Jay, Frances Crampton, Allison Marshall and Cheryl Borris.

On Monday the schools section of the festival commences with folk dancing at Central Junior High, brass, woodwind and string ensemble classes at St. Andrew's Kirk Hall and, in the evening, orchestra and band classes at Central Junior.

Adjudicators are A. B. Christianson, bands and instrumental, Dr. Frank L. D'Andrea, stringed instruments, Dr. Wayne S. Hertz, school choral (beginning Wednesday) and Mrs. Peggy MacFarlane, dancing.

Complete results follow:

By EDNA BLAKELY
OTTAWA (CP)—In the daytime 46-year-old George Blackburn is a public relations officer for the federal labor department.

In the dead of night, he's a playwright.

"I work best between midnight and 6 a.m. on writing," the personable civil servant explained. "The family is in bed, and by then I've forgotten the practical aspects of my employment."

One of his plays, "A Button Is Missing," was the first play to be held over in the 50-year history of the Ottawa Little Theatre. A recent production ran for a record of 11 performances.

This comedy, written two years ago, was first produced at a summer theatre at Vine-land, Ont., with a professional cast. The script has been tightened since then and the author believes "we have a play now that is workable anywhere."

There's no rush to the bank with receipts from this production, but he is hopeful its reception here may lead to other showings, perhaps a summer tour with a professional cast.

CHEATED SLOGAN
Mr. Blackburn is the man who thought up the "why wait for spring" slogan widely used in the labor department's campaigns exhorting industries and citizens to undertake construction and home improvement projects in winter, when unemployment is highest.

"I had the royalties on that," he says.

Born on a farm at Wales, Ont., 12 miles north of Cornwall, Blackburn is now a public relations officer for the federal labor department.

"The Chase" will have an all-star cast and it is to be filmed from the screen play written by Horton Foote. The story concerns contemporary Texas and the conflict between first and second generation pioneers.

Televised Vaudeville Packs 'Em In

LEEDS, England (CP)—The English music-hall, dead since the coming of the talkies elsewhere in the country, is kept vigorously alive in this Yorkshire city by, of all things, television.

At irregular intervals over the last 10 years, a popular program called The Good Old Days, televised from the City Varieties Music-Hall here, has been packing in the proud locals to see an authentic period vaudeville bill, frock-coated chairman and all. There is always a waiting-list of 2,000 more than the 500-seat theatre can accommodate.

Producer Barney Colehan asks the audience to complete the televised illusion by coming in Victorian or Edwardian costume, and for weeks in advance Leeds-people enthusiastically ransack old trunks in the attic or hire feather boas and high-buttoned Norfolk jackets.

The ladies pile their hair up under flower-laden merry widow hats, while the men sprout side-whiskers and walrus moustaches and part their hair in the middle in the fashion of 1900.

The City Varieties is at least 150 years old. Charlie Chaplin appeared there as a boy. Others who topped the bill in the golden age of vaudeville included Sir Harry Lauder, American "coon" singer Eugene Stratton, famed for "Lily of Laguna," and escape magician Harry Houdini.

Gayfer Singers To Perform Bach In Sacred Recital

On Sunday, May 5, at the Church of Our Lord, The Gayfer Singers will perform a Bach Motet, "Jesu, Priceless Treasure." Director of the ensemble is Capt. J. M. Gayfer.

This will form the climax of a sacred music service which will begin at 7:30, following a shortened Evensong.

Assistant soloists will be Jill and Pamela Paver, Rino Elverhoy, Barbara Ann Court, violinist; Ann Metrakos, flautist; J. Ingram Smith will be at the organ.

We're Tougher Than Athletes Says National Ballet Dancer

MONTREAL (CP)—Ballet is not for weaklings, says David Adams of Toronto, premier dancer with the National Ballet of Canada.

"Indeed, I doubt whether many sports stars could stand the pace we must endure. A dancer must keep in training for 12 months a year. He must be in condition for much longer than any athlete."

A ballet dancer continues the grind for many years after he reaches 34, an age when most hockey and football stars retire, he says.

Adams now is 34 but he hopes to continue in his profession for "at least the next 15 years."

The broad-shouldered native of Winnipeg is critical of parents who discourage sons from taking up ballet.

"I am afraid there is still a great deal of prejudice against male ballet dancers in Canada. For this parents are to blame. They have the absurd notion that ballet is a sissy, effeminate thing."

Adams says conditions for promising ballet dancers are improving in Canada.

"I have been able to make a fair living at it since the end of the war. And the prospects for the future are even better."

Canadian tastes in ballet seem to run to the classical, he says.

"But in some areas, and Montreal is among them, there is an audience for more contemporary ballet. I find that Toronto ballet-goers are much more conservative than Montrealers."

Adams had intended to leave April 1 for Britain to dance as a guest star with the Festival Ballet Company until the Canadian season in September.

However, an operation in Toronto for removal of a bone chip from his right foot put him in a walking cast and he now plans to join the English company in June.

He spent last year with the National Ballet this season—as a sort of blessing in disguise. It was a break that enabled her to take a long look at herself as well as have a physical rest. By fall he hopes to be dancing with her again.

A performer with strong personal views, Adams insists that the artificial show business atmosphere should not spill into the life of his 12-year-old daughter Janine, being raised by his mother in Vancouver.

He hasn't spent more than two months at a time with Janine and, while conceding it might seem callous, he maintains "it would be unfair to ask her to live the type of life we have to."

Youth Orchestra Conductor Guarantees Future Members

Vilem Sokol, musical director and conductor of the Seattle Youth Symphony Orchestra which will give a concert in Memorial Arena Sunday afternoon, is the proud father of nine children.

Among the nine there are six violinists (two play in the orchestra) three pianists and three cellists.

Mrs. Sokol is also a violinist but surprisingly enough has not found time in recent years to keep up her practice.

Practice, incidentally, is the chief answer in the Sokol family to the eternal question, "What can I do?"

Mr. Sokol teaches viola and violin at the University of Washington, is first violist with the Seattle Symphony, plays viola with the University String Quartet and is Associate Director of the High School Institute.

VILEM SOKOL

the Seattle Youth Orchestra three years ago, the organization has grown tremendously, not only in size but in stature.

Sunday's concert is being sponsored by the Victoria Symphony Society. It will begin at 2:30 p.m.

'CARDINAL' FOR N.E.

BOSTON (UPI)—New England cities, including Boston, were chosen by producer-director Otto Preminger as starting locations for filming of "The Cardinal" starring Curt Jurgens and Romy Schneider.

Vienna and Rome also will be used in the picture, based on the best seller about the career of a young priest who rises to a Cardinalship in the period between two world wars.

A simple line drawing of a bird in flight, carrying a bundle tied with a string in its beak. To the right of a vertical line is a baby carriage with a canopy and two large wheels.

Reminiscing about their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Digital came up with some interesting statistics. At the time of their wedding, Mrs. Digital was  $4/5$ ths her husband's age; she is now  $6/7$ ths his age, but 7 years hence will be  $5/8$ ths his age.

How long have the Digitalises been married.

Men and boys from the cathedral of St. John the Evangelist, Spokane, Washington, will sing in Christ Church Cathedral Sunday morning and evening.

The 35 boys and eight men will sing with the male choir of the cathedral under the leadership of their organist and choirmaster, Dr. Harold Eimecke. They will sing Benjamin Britten's "Jubilate Deo" at the morning service and two anthems in the evening.

Dr. Eimecke will play pre-service music at the cathedral organ before the morning service, and the small gallery organ after the evening service.

The Dean of Spokane, Very Rev. Richard Combs, will preach at both services.

"This visit by a number of American church people reminds us yet again of the international and world-wide nature of our Anglican Communion," writes Dean Brian Whitlow in the Christ Church Cathedral leaflet.

"It is the same mother church wherever we go, ready to welcome us and make us immediately at home in the family of God."

In a message to the 1963 nurses graduating from the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Dean
Whitlow writes:

many people."

Indonesia, Red China 'Wooing' Falls Flat

By WARREN UNNA

DJAKARTA, Indonesia—Now that the dust has settled from last week's state visit of Communist China's chairman Liu Shao Chi, reports are beginning to circulate around Indonesia's capital that despite all the official words of brotherhood, Liu and President Sukarno ended up emphasizing the negative.

When he returned from escorting his guest to Bali near the end of Liu's eight-day visit, the usually smiling and ebullient Sukarno was spotted looking tired and serious. And throughout his public appearances he was "Liu's wife." Madam Liu is pretty, smiling, in her early 40s and very feminine. She wore the high split skirt famous in pre-Communist China, alternated with lace and silver brocade jackets. She kept the chitchat going with President Sukarno, a gallant who appreciates femininity.

The real personality and interlocutor of the visit turned out to be Liu's wife. Madam Liu is pretty, smiling, in her early 40s and very feminine. She wore the high split skirt famous in pre-Communist China, alternated with lace and silver brocade jackets. She kept the chitchat going with President Sukarno, a gallant who appreciates femininity.

FLAT REJECTION

It is reported that Liu was turned down flat on the two requests he made during this unprecedented pilgrimage to the world outside Peking:

—His concern for the way Indonesia discriminates against its Chinese minority of several million persons was brushed aside with a "This is our internal problem."

—His worry that Indonesia is up to no good by pushing a possible Pan-Malayan federation with the Philippines and Malaysia with anti-Chinese as the one common denominator was met by a suggestion that he look at the map and see for himself the natural dictates of geography.

On the other hand, Indonesia too didn't seem to come off too well with the one thing it would have liked to have had from Liu: a flat endorsement of Indonesia's opposition to the forthcoming federation of Malaysia, which on August 31 is to integrate Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak, Brunei and North Borneo.

China wants to block a Pan-Malayan federation because it might mean a nationalistic movement to oppose southeast Asia's Chinese minorities and her own future expansion plans. But China contrarily does not want to get into the embarrassing position of stopping the five-nation Malaysia federation because it might make her appear to be forsaking her role as protector of the large Chinese minorities in these Malaysian countries.

And diplomats are convinced that in addition to trying to find out what Indonesia was up to in a Pan-Malayan federation—and trying to stop whatever initial steps it has made—China had taken the unprecedented step of dispatching chairman Liu Shao Chi, Mao Tse Tung's publicity appointed successor, to counter the visit which had just concluded here of Marshal Radion Malinovsky, the Soviet minister of defence.

With its long history of trouble with both China and its own Chinese minorities, Indonesia was not expected to be swept off its feet. But the Yugoslavs here were both chuckling and surprised at the audacity of Antara, the official Indonesian government news agency, in describing Liu's reception in Djakarta last week as "dense crowds, largely composed of students and people of Chinese origin."

LIU ... 'anything for cause'

Antara also used the eight days of the Liu visit to print two long feature articles on Yugoslavia. Communist China's nemesis, and one praising Soviet methods of agriculture, another unpleasant subject for China.

While Liu's visit obviously received considerable attention from official Indonesia, considerable more hoopla has been involved in the Asian-African journalists conference which President Sukarno opened here Wednesday in the Soviet-built Bung Karno Senajan sports palace.

NEW MINISTER

'Hard Bargain' Pledged on Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's new trade minister said this week that Canada will play a strong role in world efforts to reduce trade barriers, but declared "we'll be tough bargainers."

"Make no bones about it, we'll be bargaining hard," Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp said in his first press conference as minister.

The goal would be "to gain concessions in other markets at least equal to those we grant in our own market."

He was referring to the international tariff bargaining due to begin next year under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and based on the tariff-cutting powers of President Kennedy's U.S. Trade Expansion Act.

Mr. Sharp, speaking to reporters little more than 24 hours after taking office, said he will be going to Geneva next month for a preliminary GATT meeting which would establish the rules "and I hope perhaps some of the principles" under which the 1964 negotiations will be conducted.

NEARS APPROVAL

He said the position Canada will take has not yet been approved by the cabinet, and declined to indicate what specific approach might be taken. He added, however:

"I hope we shall take quite a strong position in the GATT negotiations and resume our position in the free world as a leading trading nation. We can't sit back and let other people make our decision for us."

The government would be seeking to "give Canada an appropriate place in these negotiations."

It was "imperative" to Canada that international trade barriers be reduced, Canada, of all countries, stood to benefit from such a development.

The GATT meeting in Geneva to which Mr. Sharp referred is one of four trade meetings within the next four weeks—all exploratory in nature—in which trade policies of the new Liberal government will be unveiled.

Mr. Sharp indicated he will seek a second long-term contract for wheat sales to Communist China, but declined to predict whether one can be successfully negotiated.

"I don't know whether we shall or not," he said, when asked about prospects for concluding a new agreement. "We haven't begun discussions yet."

He said he has no plans to go to China to sell wheat and hoped that negotiations could be carried on "quite successfully" without such a trip.

Mr. Sharp made these other points:

1. Reduction of Canada's deficit on international payments—some $300,000,000 last year—"will be one of the primary objectives of the government."

2. The trade department's industrial development branch likely will be among the department's operations that will be transferred to the proposed new department of industry.

3. He will seek to carry forward and improve the department's export promotion efforts.

AGREEMENT EXPIRES
A 24-year wheat agreement with Communist China, covering 186,700,000 bushels of wheat and more than 40,000 bushels of barley, expires at the end of this year. Individual contracts under the agreement—covering all but about 40,000 bushels of wheat so far—have involved giving China credit terms of nine months to a year.

Mr. Sharp said he has no objection to granting credit terms, and noted that the first credit sales to Communist countries had been made in 1956 when he was deputy trade minister under the former Liberal government.

Two-Down As Vessel Founders on Shoal
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A gay, three-boat party in the Bahamas turned into tragedy Friday night when one of the boats, a 36-foot pleasure craft, struck a shoal in shallow water and sank almost immediately, killing two persons and injuring several others.

The U.S. Coast Guard said 22 persons were rescued and two of the injured were flown to Miami. The tragedy occurred off Bimini Island.

LESAGE PM?

'Only He Can Unite Canada'

QUEBEC (CP)—An English-speaking member of the legislature said Thursday night that Premier Lesage could become prime minister of Canada.

Frank Hanley (Ind.—St. Ann), in a rambling speech during the budget debate, said that if English Canada doesn't meet Quebec's needs and rights, then a French-Canadian would have to be named prime minister.

There is only one man who can do the job, said Mr. Hanley, who supported the Social Credit party during the federal election campaign.

"Who is that?" asked Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson. "Only one man can unite Upper and Lower Canada," said Mr. Hanley, "and that man is the present premier of Quebec."

His words, greeted by thunderous applause and wide grins of the Liberal members, brought the budget debate to a close after three days.

Mr. Hanley is of Irish descent.

Overdose of Pills Blamed for Death

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police have blamed an overdose of tranquilizer pills for the death of a Vancouver man and the collapse of his wife Friday.

The body of Olaf Ziesing, 31, was found in his apartment after his wife Doreen, 36, staggered down a flight of stairs and collapsed at the feet of her landlady.

Police said Ziesing died from an overdose of the pills.

Mrs. Ziesing was taken unconscious to hospital where she was in fair condition today.

The incident was described by police as a possible suicide pact.

The landlady, Mrs. Kathleen Keppner, said the couple had been married for three years and had lived in the building for six months.

Ziesing had just completed a drafting course and was looking for work and his wife was a commercial artist.

Boom In Pulp Possible For Interior

KELOWNA (CP)—Lands and Forests Minister Williston says there is the possibility of several new pulp mills in the British Columbia Interior.

In a talk to a banquet of the Interior Logging Association he mentioned the planned $50,000,000 pulp and paper operation at Prince George and the "vast" possibility of another mill at Kamloops.

Then he said without giving details that there is a possibility of four additional mills in the Interior.

The Prince George mill is planned by Canadian Forests Products Ltd. of Vancouver and the International Reed paper group of England.

"When these mills go into production more trucking will be needed," the minister said. "It will be essential to truck the materials needed from this area to fulfill the requirements of these mills and this in turn will bring a secondary industry into the area utilizing forest waste."

REDUCE CUTTING
Mr. Williston also warned that if the forest industry of tomorrow is to be protected the cutting of today must be reduced. In the Okanagan 11,120,000 cubic feet was being cut yearly while experts figured that the cut should be 8,850,000.

"This is the most serious area in B.C. for the operation of the sustained yield unit. Too many trees are being cut in order to get the most out of the sustained yield unit."

He said the price of timber is going up and some major industries in the Okanagan are short of logs. In the future wood would have to be used more precisely.

"We must begin to utilize all the wood in our forests if we are going to protect our industry for the future."

Peace Spies Reveal More CD Secrets

LONDON (Reuters)—Two more "spies for peace" documents, claiming to reveal secrets of Britain's civil defence plans in a nuclear war, were received by British news agencies and newspapers Thursday.

One of them claimed to give details of a regional seat of government in the southeastern part of England. It was headed "official secret" and was mailed from a London suburb. Copies of the same pamphlet were mailed in Cambridge.

The other pamphlet, mailed in London Wednesday night, contained what it called secret details about last autumn's NATO nuclear exercise. The envelope was marked "secret."

During an Easter demonstration march against nuclear weapons thousands of pamphlets were distributed among the marchers, pinpointing what they said were the secret administrative regional headquarters in case of nuclear war.

NOT B.C. MATTER

Meat Inspection
Municipal Chore

The provincial government is leaving the field of compulsory meat inspection to the municipalities, Agriculture Minister Frank Richter made clear Friday.

He said if there is compulsory, that is a local matter.

"There is no intention of imposing compulsory meat inspection on a province-wide basis," he said.

"The responsibility for the sale of uninspected meat rests with local authorities," he added.

The minister issued the statement to all news media "to clear up misinformation arising from a series of misunderstandings on the subject," he said. He did not elaborate.

FARMERS OBJECT

But it was known that in some areas, such as Greater Victoria, where meat inspection is a must, some farm producers object to funneling their beef through a central inspection point where they are charged a fee for the service. Some of them have blamed the government for instigating the meat inspection service which they resent. While the government did pass enabling legislation, the compulsion was brought about by intermunicipal action.

At the same time, Mr. Richter said no one in British Columbia is obliged to purchase uninspected meat for human consumption.

All areas of the province do not have meat inspection by-laws, but inspected meats are available to purchasers in all areas of the province, he said.

"Most retailers, regardless of their location, obtain their supplies from packinghouses where inspection and grading are carried out by qualified government officials," the minister said.

He added, there is still some confusion in the public mind about the difference between meat inspection and grading.

Meat which has been inspected for wholesomeness and passed for human consumption is stamped "Canada Approved" or "B.C. Passed."

Meat that has been graded for quality as well, is marked "Canada Choice" or "Canada Good."

800 Freed By Cubans

HAVANA (UPI) — The Cuban government announced today the American Red Cross charter ship American Surveyor will take about 800 refugees to the United States Sunday.

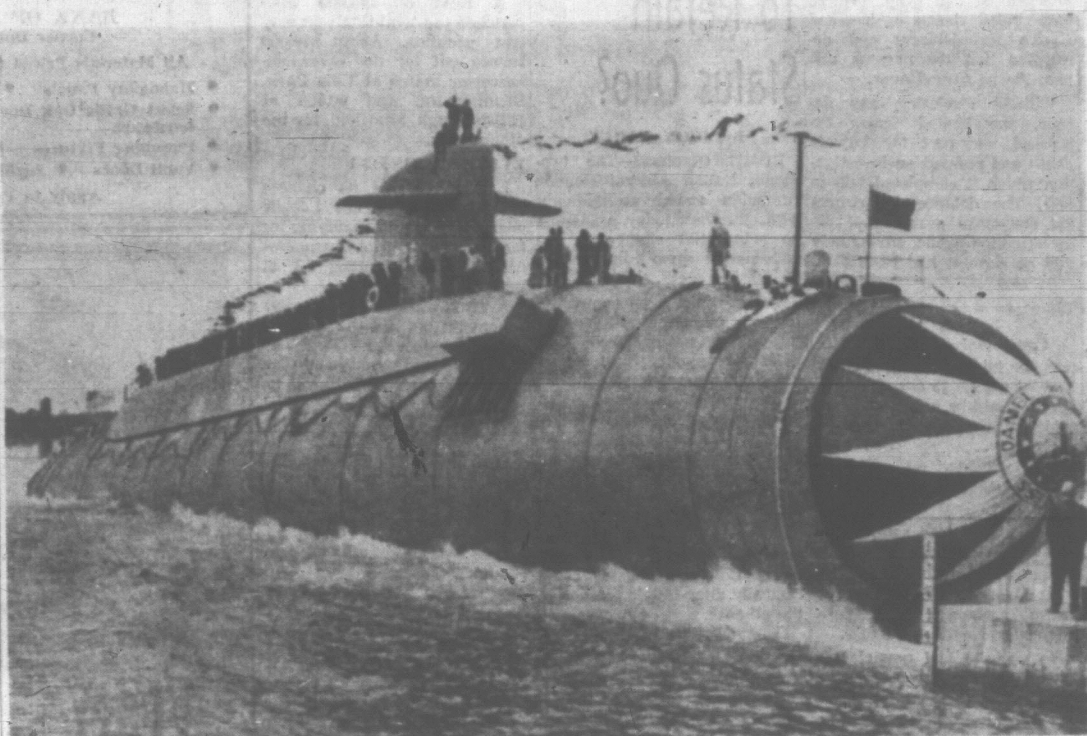

The ship is here unloading a consignment of ransom goods in exchange for the released Bay invasion prisoners.

The official communique said the Cubans were going to the United States "due to a reversal by the Kennedy regime in its policy of authorizing entrance into the United States from Cuba."

The government had charged previously that the U.S. cut off the influx of exiles from Cuba because of grave sociological problems they allegedly produced in the Miami area.

All Cubans leaving have completed emigration proceedings including relinquishing cars and other belongings to the government.

Rocket Plant Explosion Kills Three

Jordan Youths Storm, Seize Own Embassy

BAGHDAD, Iraq (Reuters)—Some 70 Jordanian students today stormed and took over the Jordanian Embassy here, hoisted an Arab-unity flag while 1,000 fellow students shouted their support and Iraqi police and armed soldiers stood by applauding.

A correspondent who telephoned the embassy got the reply: "This is the embassy of the republic of Jordan."

A student who gave his name as Ahmad Tadmuri said Charge d'Affaires Sayed Fawaz Ghanam and his staff were all safe but added: "We will sleep and eat here."

The demonstrators marched into the building while Jordanian officials looked on helplessly. The students arrived singing "death to (King) Hussein of Jordan."

RAISE FLAG

The invading students raised a four-star Arab unity flag over the building. The flag of the proposed federation of Egypt, Syria and Iraq contains three stars.

The four-star flag has recently been displayed by those who want Jordan to join the federation.

A spokesman for the anti-Hussein element in Baghdad said the embassy coup was planned some days ago and similar action was expected in the Jordanian embassies in Cairo and Damascus.

(In Ankara today about 100 Jordanian students entered the Jordanian Embassy in a demonstration against Hussein. The embassy called for the police but the demonstrators dispersed before they arrived.)

'PAPER TOWN' SCORES WELL

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP)—Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls, B.C., and Ralph Hutton, also from the tiny paper-and-pulp town, won the second-place silver and the third-place bronze medals in the men's 1,500-metre freestyle swim at the Pan-American Games today.

Patricia Pomfort of Vancouver took a bronze in the women's 200-metre freestyle.

400-Foot Flames

ROCKET CENTRE, W.Va. (UPI) — Three men were killed and 11 others injured today when a devastating explosion tore through the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, one of the chief sources of fuel supply for the Polaris missile.

The thunderous blast, which occurred about 3:30 a.m., in a chemical processing building, shot flames 400 feet into the air, unleased an atomic-looking cloud of smoke and rumbled the ground for distances up to 10 miles.

The facility is operated by the Hercules Powder Co. for the U.S. Navy. Its number one product is solid fuel propellant and it was one of the prime developers of the Polaris missile.

A spokesman for Hercules said the cause of the blast is "not now known" but officials have begun an investigation. He added that sabotage "is not even being considered."

Plant manager John C. Foster said damage will run into "many thousands of dollars." He said the explosion, which scattered debris over a quarter-mile area, would cause interruptions in some of the centre's operations.

BEAMS TOSSED AROUND About 200 workers were on the job during the "cat-eye" trick when the explosion cut loose. It hurled huge steel beams through the air, leaving them twisted like pretzels, and shattered thousands of windows on other buildings located on the 1,600-acre grounds.

The dead men were working in the processing building, which was demolished. They were identified as Egil Ludvigsen, 29, Oakland, Md.; David L. Wright, 27, Westernport, Md.; and Chester R. Kenner, 27, Midland, Md.

Seven of the injured required hospitalization, but only one was reported in serious condition. The injured were not in the building at the time of the explosion, second here in two years.

On May 22, 1961, a blast demolished another chemical processing building here and killed nine workers. That occurred during the day shift.

FAILURE

Prince Souvanna Phouma failed today in attempt to reach agreement with pro-Communist Pathet Lao and end crisis threatening his new government. Both sides will meet again Tuesday near the Plain des Jars.

Cuba Backs Up Claim Of 'Pirate' Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A free-lance photographer who claims he took part in a bombing raid on Havana says he'll press the attack on Communist Cuba "at every opportunity."

More than eight hours after Alexander Rorke Jr. of New York gave reporters his account of a low-level bombing run over a Havana oil refinery, the Cuban government echoed most of his story and said it holds the United States responsible. The state department at first cast doubt on the whole matter. After Havana radio broadcast the Cuban government's statement Friday night the department had no comment.

Associated Press correspondent George Arfied said in a dispatch from Cuba there were no visible indications that the Nico Lopez refinery outside Havana had been bombed. He said usually reliable sources had expressed doubt there was a raid.

Havana radio said "the Cuban government holds the United States government responsible for these pirate attacks and the consequences that may come from them."

It said a formal diplomatic protest was being prepared.

As outlined by the Cuban government, the raid took place at 10 p.m. Thursday night. Rorke told reporters the plane started its bombing run at 8:35 p.m. and was over the refinery for four minutes and 40 seconds.

VERSIONS MESH

In most other details the two versions meshed. Rorke and the government statement said a two-engine plane approached from the north, flew over the Nico Lopez refinery, dropped a 100-pound bomb and several napalm fire bombs then flew northward.

Havana radio said none of the bombs exploded. Rorke said he thought he heard the 100-

'WAR' AGAINST CASTRO DECLARED BY EXILE

MIAMI (UPI)—Filipe Vidal Santiago, a former naval commander for Fidel Castro, formally declared war against Cuba today in the hope of gaining a base of operations for his liberation movement.

Vidal, 37, said he was petitioning the White House and the ambassadors of the Organization of American States in Washington today for recognition of his group as "a belligerent under international law."

Dressed in a neat blue business suit himself, but with his 25-year-old brother modeling the military uniform of the United Front for the Liberation of Cuba, Vidal announced his plans "to organize and conduct military operations on the high seas and in the Republic of Cuba."

Marine Helped Bury Body of Slain Spy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ex-marine William A. Szili said today he helped retrieve from Cuban soil and secretly bury the body of a Guantanamo Bay naval base employee he called a Castro spy. Szili, ousted from the corps last year, said the only thing he did wrong was get caught.

Szili told reporters he decided to help his company commander get rid of the body of Ruben Lopez "because of the international repercussion" he thought would come in the wake of the shooting.

The former lieutenant spent two hours telling his story to Representative Richard S. Schweiker (Rep. Pa.). Schweiker said he will demand "a full-scale congressional investigation."

Szili said Lopez was shot one Saturday night late in September, 1961, after Capt. Arthur J. Jackson found the Cuban providing about a restricted magazine.

Red Port Wows Fidel

MOSCOW (AP)—Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro said today he would cherish the memory of his ear-splitting welcome in the Arctic city of Murmansk as "the most exciting moment of my life."

The Soviet news agency Tass said thousands greeted the bearded Cuban on his midnight arrival for a first visit to the Soviet Union. Castro said he would guess all 200,000 of the city's population had turned out to meet him.

Castro began calmly and slowly, but was soon shouting his Soviet translator, who had begun shouting at the very beginning.

"We feel," Castro said, "as if the arms of the Soviet Union have been opened to embrace us. . . . I am impatiently looking forward to making an acquaintance with your industrial life."

FIRE HOSE FLUSHES CAT FROM UNDER PARIS GIRLS' SCHOOL

Escaped Leopard Terrorizes Suburb

By PATRICK McNULTY

PARIS (AP)—A snarling black leopard, just a few days removed from a Borneo jungle, was tracked down and captured today underneath a girls' school in a Paris suburb.

The leopard escaped from a circus and had brought terror to entire community of St. Denis on the outskirts of Paris.

A worker was bitten on the arm and shoulder Friday when he stumbled on the big jungle cat in a darkened apartment house corridor.

After an intense search by police carrying machine-guns and led by dogs, the leopard was found this morning hiding beneath the one-storey school.

PUPILS EVACUATED

Saturday classes were in progress when the leopard was located. The school girls were evacuated and classes were dismissed as police, firemen and members of the Franki circus swarmed over the school grounds.

At the gates of the school yard, police held back a crowd of about 2,000 while circus animal trainers hastily set up cages and nets to trap the leopard.

One small cage was set up just outside a three-foot square hole in the foundation through which the leopard entered. This was reinforced by a larger cage.

Firemen tried to flush the animal from under the school house by squirting in tear gas. This failed. Firemen then tried to force it into the cage with water from a high pressure hose.

With sledge hammers, they knocked a hole in one end of the school's foundation to insert the nozzle. A large hole was also cut in the floor of the school and three animal trainers climbed down into the low, 3½-foot high foundation area.

Working with only a heavy net for protection, the animal trainers—helped by the firemen squirting the hose—tried to chase the leopard into the cage.

Trainer Jacky Rex, standing inside the large cage, was handed a pistol. The onlookers became still. The only sound was the sharp click when Rex cocked his pistol and pointed it at the cage enclosing the dark opening to the foundation.

There was a black blur. The leopard suddenly was in the cage. It was snarling, wet, and angry. The men outside the cage quickly lowered a rope that closed the door of the small cage. A loud cheer went up from the onlookers and the leopard joined in with a few angry snarls.

The cage was quickly loaded into a waiting van and taken back to the circus which is set up a few blocks away.

JFK Counters Cuba Charge

By DAN KURZMAN

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy said this week that the United States had done almost everything possible short of violence to strike Fidel Castro's Communist regime.

Replying at his press conference to charges by former vice-president Richard M. Nixon and other Republican critics that he wasn't doing enough, the president expressed puzzlement about what action such critics favored.

"If they are advocating (steps leading to violence)," he said, "then I recognize that as an alternative policy, but if it is merely a policy which says that we should do something without defining it... we deserve in a question of this importance a good deal more precision in our prescriptions for its solutions."

Exiles No Solution

Mr. Kennedy declared that he did not think that the Cuban exiles, if "unleashed," as proposed by Mr. Nixon, could solve the Cuban problem.

Moreover, the president rejected the idea of a Cuban government-in-exile because "we would want to support a government which would strike a responsive chord in Cuba itself. The experience with governments in exile has not been particularly felicitous, historically speaking."

He added "there is no evidence that exiles themselves could develop a government which would necessarily be the government which the people of Cuba would freely choose."

Mr. Kennedy would not comment when asked what policy the U.S. will pursue toward exile raids on Cuba now that 21 Americans who had been imprisoned on the island have been released.

Avoid Provocation

Some U.S. officials have indicated that the liberation of these prisoners would mean a loosening of restrictions on exile activist measures against Cuba. With the prisoners' fate in the balance, Washington had tried to avoid provoking Castro unnecessarily.

President Kennedy contradicted a statement by Sen. Kenneth Keating (R-N.Y.) that Russian troops arriving in Cuba in recent weeks have about equalled the number that have been withdrawn.

"It is our best information," Mr. Kennedy said, "that 4,000 or 5,000 (Russians) have left since January, and that there has not been an equal number come in. In fact, much, much less, 300 or 400 at the most."

However, the president indicated that only a small number have left in April, and that

SEARCH COSTS $100,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — An RCAF spokesman here Friday estimated it cost more than $100,000 for the search for Ralph Flores and Helen Klaben.

The two were found alive after spending 49 days in the wilderness of the Watson Lake area near the B.C.-Yukon border. Their light plane crashed Feb. 4 en route to the U.S.

The air force said 121 officers and men, 21 military aircraft and 14 civilian planes took part in the search from Feb. 5 to Feb. 28. The planes covered 150,333 square miles and flew for 835 hours.

The spokesman said costs for the military planes ranged from about $45 to $300 per hour, making up about $90,000 of the cost of the search.

Hatred, Fear Spread in S. Africa

By RICHARD R. KASISCHKE

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP)—South Africa has a heritage of fear, hatred and guilty conscience. Hatred is the oldest of the three elements. Fear is increasing and so, apparently, is a widespread feeling of guilt among the whites who rule the country.

Anti-government sabotage is increasing. Police drives against Poqo, the Negro underground terrorist organization, bring headlines.

But Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's government has many guns and is making and buying more daily. Furthermore, South Africa still has a row of white-ruled states between it and the wave of nationalism that has turned nations to the north over to black rule.

Verwoerd's government has quadrupled military police spending in recent years, expanded those two forces and opened new plants for manufacture of small arms and ammunition. It is buying abroad the warships and planes it cannot manufacture.

Now 10,000 trained men are ready to smash any internal revolt or to repel any "African nationalist—Communist invasion," the reason the government gives for its record peace-time armings.

VIGILANTES READY

Thousands more can be called up on short notice. In nearly every sizable town police reserve corps and vigilante groups could spring into action the moment the new country-wide commando-police communications network spreads an alarm.

The militant determination of Verwoerd's Afrikaner nationalists is repeatedly expressed with bluntness: To hold vast and enormously rich South Africa as a last redoubt of "Christianity and western civilization against a reversal to primitiveness and chaos."

Backing up Verwoerd is his tough minister of justice, Balthazar Vorster. He is regarded as the No. 2 man, swinging the cudgels at alleged saboteurs and subversives, black and white.

White liberals say Vorster is one of the biggest obstacles to chances for an 11th-hour peaceful solution to South Africa's racial problems.

NAZI SYMPATHIZER

Vorster, 47, was interned as a Nazi sympathizer during the Second World War. The press supporting the government depicts him as a gleaming St. George slaying dragons labelled "Poqo," snakes labelled "Communist sabotage" or rats labelled "liberals—crypto-Communists."

For the last year Vorster has been on the attack against what he calls "the white inciter who lurks behind the black saboteurs." His police round up hundreds of Poqo suspects. They bring dozens of Negroes into court on sabotage charges—some facing possible death sentences.

Daubing of anti-government slogans in public places is punishable by six months in prison. Slogan painters working at night use indelible paint for "Hang Vorster" and "Vorster is a Nazi" signs on bridges and walls in Johannesburg, Cape Town and Durban.

Vorster's reply to charges of repressive laws and actions is: "I have no apologies. I get my power from a democratically elected parliament."

It is Nationalist-controlled and white-dominated.

ONLY BY FORCE

Dr. Jan Seydier, leader of the opposition Progressive party, charges recently that the Verwoerd government can maintain the present situation only on a basis of force.

The liberal-minded Johannesburg Star, an English-language paper, says power is not enough and efforts must still be made toward some kind of racial harmony.

Laurence Gandar, editor of the Johannesburg Rand Daily Mail, sees the present trend as tragic. He says the Verwoerd Afrikaners, having failed to achieve unity with English-descended whites, now are "forcing this unity—on a war footing—against the black menace."

West Germany is the fourth largest importer of United States goods, taking some $1,500,000,000 annually.

Arthur Mayse

Once or twice a year I forget about the so-important errands, the lineup of jobs waiting to be done, and set out to reaffirm a conviction of many years standing.

This is that in spite of high-rise scars and other disfigurements being inflicted in the name of progress, Victoria remains Canada's fairest city.

My Victoria, which is considerably larger than the maps indicate, begins in navy country at Esquimalt and ends where Saanich Peninsula points bluff bows toward Salt Spring Island and Cowichan Gap. West away, it ambles past Gorge and Goldstream to the Malahat summit and a view so noble that familiarity fails to diminish it.

South, my city ranges out past Beacon Hill's golden cliffs to straits which today are a swatch of palest blue satin and tonight will be an ebony ribbon between the Dallas Road lights and Port Angeles' shimmering spangle.

Southeast to northeast lie the islands great and small. Trial with its legend of rum-runners' liquor sacks planted under the cabbages in a lightkeeper's tidy garden. Jimmy Chicken in Oak Bay—or Mary Todd if any precisionist insists—then the stepping stones of the Chain group, and the Indian Chathams from Strongside down to Discovery where moonlight sets the little brown rabbits frolicking.

Victoria is richly blessed with islands.

The heart of this town which I first discovered as a small boy and adopted as soon as my fates would allow, is wherever one chooses to locate it.

Beacon Hill Park for some. For others the Causeway or our greystone Legislative Buildings back of their incredibly green lawns, or the wide downtown streets laid out by planners with more artistry and vision than our present crew.

To very many of us, in this city without slums, Victoria means a garden.

Butchart's in its splendidly transfigured quarry is a marvel to the eye, but for me too grand. When I go there, which is only when our Symphony Orchestra moves outdoors or when I have visiting firemen from less-favored parts in tow, my chief delight is to spot a weed in an otherwise immaculate border.

I prefer the smaller—but not necessarily humbler—gardens; and in these, what city can match Victoria?

SOMEBODY STOLE THE STEERING WHEEL

Frigate Left in Helmless State

By AB KENT
There's a free-wheeling gang operating at HMC Dockyard—they pinched the ship's steering wheel from frigate HMCS Sussexvale some time Friday. It was still missing at noon today.
A man could be thrown into steerage for this. Or sent to bash the square. While the RCMP and RCN security men are investigating in the event of genuine theft, a naval spokesman said it is probably due to a rival ship's raid.
A big wheel in the information service said it was only a small wheel—about 30 inches across, weighing about 30 pounds, made of wood, navy issue type—taken from its compartment directly below the bridge. Anyway, it was replaced in time for the ship to make a scheduled dependent's day cruise in local waters today.

The spokesman said: "While deploring the fact that a theft had been committed, senior naval officers ruefully admitted that although normal security measures would preclude an unauthorized person gaining access to the steering compartment, uniformed personnel from within the ship or from other ships could do so. As the annals of the navy are filled with sagas of inter-ship raids, this was considered a strong possibility, the act possibly being perpetrated by an enthusiastic but misguided 'raiding team'." They were probably confined into it.
"Well-planned and carefully executed operations of similar nature have been renowned in the past," the statement concluded.
Divers were sent down to search the bottom of Sussexvale's berth, but all they got was wet.

Would-Be Non-Smokers In Seminar

An experimental clinic for people who have difficulty giving up smoking will be held at a Non-Smokers seminar to be held in the Saanich Health Centre, Vernon Ave., May 15-17.
Health Minister Eric Martin has been invited to open the seminar and speakers will include medical men and church ministers.
"We hope to get a good cross-section of opinion on the dangers of smoking," said Robert Ludwig, secretary-treasurer of the Non-Smokers' Association of Canada, who is in Victoria to organize the seminar.

TOXIC TARS

Mr. Ludwig declared cigarette filters "do not filter anything."
"Most doctors are agreed that filters do not exclude toxic tars or any of the injurious substances contained in cigarettes," he said. "That is why we are campaigning against smoking in general and cigarette smoking in particular."

Suspended Sentence

Margaret Levant, 47, Linden, was given a six-months suspended sentence when she appeared in Oak Bay police court Friday on a charge of false pretences involving a stolen bond.

3,000 Awed By Car Show At Esquimalt

Close to 3,000 persons blinked their eyes at dazzling chrome work and flashings on 34 hot rods and custom-built automobiles Friday evening at the opening of Victoria Quarter-Milers' "Autorama '63."

Also on display at the show, housed in Esquimalt Sports Centre until 11 tonight, are two motorcycles and a dragster from Vancouver which has a time of 9.1 seconds in the quarter mile. This machine has been clocked at speeds up to 169 miles per hour when finishing a quarter mile run.

All cars on display are in drivable condition with the exception of The Jewel, owned by Dave Whitehead of Victoria.

"The Jewel would have to lose some of its chrome work before it could go on the road," a Quarter-Miler spokesman said.
Trophies totalling $650 will be awarded by car show queen Jill Nielson, 17, tonight at 9 and a draw for a 1954-Ford hardtop will take place at 10 p.m.

Garden City Schooling for Garden Experts

By PETE LOUDON
Almost 100 years ago, spirited young Victoria men labored without pay on what are now Government House grounds.
Linked together, they sweated out the minor sins that brought them atoll of the law and the Victoria chain gang. And they built a roadway up the steep bluff that overlooks Fairfield.
Today again, 15 young men are laboring without pay in the same area, this time creating a new five-acre garden development.

George the Martyr at Cadboro Bay. Tea costs 50 cents, and is optional.
There will be another tour May 3 through five gardens in Oak Bay, belonging to Mrs. Pauline Miller, 2985 Beach Drive; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Husband, 3150 Rutland Road; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. In addition to these gardens, there are many others not on the tour routes that may be visited between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. on the three days of the festival.

Marine Helped Bury Body of Slain Spy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ex-marine William A. Szili said today he helped retrieve from Cuban soil and secretly bury the body of a Guantanamo Bay naval base employee he called a Castro spy. Szili, ousted from the corps last year, said the only thing he did wrong was get caught.

Szili told reporters he decided to help his company commander get rid of the body of Ruben Lopez "because of the international repercussion" he thought would come in the wake of the shooting.

The former lieutenant spent two hours telling his story to Representative Richard S. Schweiker (Rep. Pa.). Schweiker said he will demand "a full-scale congressional investigation."

Szili said Lopez was shot one Saturday night late in September, 1961, after Capt. Arthur J. Jackson found the Cuban prowling about a restricted magazine.

FIRE HOSE FLUSHES CAT FROM UNDER PARIS GIRLS' SCHOOL

Escaped Leopard Terrorizes Suburb

By PATRICK McNULTY

PARIS (AP) — A snarling black leopard, just a few days removed from a Borneo jungle, was tracked down and captured today underneath a girls' school in a Paris suburb.

The leopard escaped from a circus and had brought terror to entire community of St. Denis on the outskirts of Paris.

A worker was bitten on the arm and shoulder Friday when he stumbled on the big jungle cat in a darkened apartment house corridor.

After an intense search by police carrying machine-guns and led by dogs, the leopard was found this morning hiding beneath the one-storey school.

PUPILS EVACUATED

Saturday classes were in progress when the leopard was located. The school girls were evacuated and classes were dismissed as police, firemen and members of the Franki circus swarmed over the school cages and nets to trap the leopard.

At the gates of the school yard, police held back a crowd of about 2,000 while circus animal trainers hastily set up which the leopard entered. This was reinforced by a larger cage.

Firemen tried to flush the animal from under the school house by squirting in tear gas. This failed. Firemen then tried to force it into the cage with water from a high pressure hose.

With sledge hammers, they knocked a hole in one end of the school's foundation to insert the nozzle. A large hole was also cut in the floor of the school and three animal trainers climbed down into the low, 3½-foot high foundation area.

Working with only a heavy net for protection, the animal trainers—helped by the firemen squirting the hose—tried to chase the leopard into the cage. Trainer Jacky Rex, standing inside the large net, was handed a pistol. The onlookers became still. The only sound was the sharp click when Rex cocked his pistol and pointed it at the cage enclosing the dark opening to the foundation.

There was a black blur. The leopard suddenly was in the cage. It was snarling, wet, and angry. The men outside the cage quickly lowered a rope that closed the door of the small cage. A loud cheer went up from the onlookers and the leopard joined in with a few angry snarls.

The cage was quickly loaded into a waiting van and taken back to the circus which is set up a few blocks away.

Cuba Backs Up Claim Of 'Pirate' Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A long raid on Havana says he'll free - lance photographer who press the attack on Communist claims he took part in a bomb - Cuba "at every opportunity."

Red Port Wows Fidel

MOSCOW (AP) — Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro said today he would cherish the memory of his ear-splitting welcome in the Arctic city of Murmansk as "the most exciting moment of my life."

The Soviet news agency Tass said thousands greeted the bearded Cuban on his midnight arrival for a first visit to the Soviet Union. Castro said he would guess all 200,000 of the city's population had turned out to meet him.

Castro began calmly and slowly, but was soon shouting his Soviet translator, who had begun shouting "We feel," Castro said, "as if the arms of the Soviet Union have been opened to embrace us."

"I am impatiently looking forward to making an acquaintance with your industrial life."

Remand In Forgery

NANAIMO — Wallace Edmund Gratto was remanded to May 3 for sentence Friday after pleading guilty in police court to a charge of conspiring to utter a forged document.

Gratto was one of four men charged with conspiring to pass a forged cheque, stolen from a Victoria firm earlier this month.

raise your glasses to dior!

A toast to Mr. Dior, who has helped make the world aware that all does not have to be as it seems to turn out a lovely lady. A bow here, an A-line there, and...voila! Another, beautiful creature tiptoes into the evening. Furthermore, she's wearing glasses, not only because her vision requires it, but also because her fashion-designed frames highlight her appearance. Frames imported from France, Italy, and the U.S. are big news every spring. Many of Mr. Dior's admirers have several — one for every kind of outing. A toast to them, too!

B.C. ASSOCIATION OF OPTOMETRISTS

NANAIMO — Charges may be laid against a boat owner for discharging oil in Nanaimo harbor Friday.

The oil, believed to have been discharged from an old C-1 Park-type freighter, has spread over a wide area in the harbor and out towards log booms.

Members of the Nanaimo Harbor Commission spent the night spraying the harbor with a special chemical to break up the oil.

But the cleanup job is far from finished.

Harbormaster J. Dunham said it will probably take all weekend to break up the oil.

Stiff penalties are imposed on ship owners for discharging oil in harbors. They can be fined as much as $500.

The oil causes extensive damages. Apart from killing sea and bird life, it smears boats and damages good logs and ruins caulk boots.

All ship masters on entering a harbor are warned against discharging oil.

Hospitals Council Meets At Nanaimo

DUNCAN — Thirteen members of the King's Daughters' Hospital and the hospital board are attending the Vancouver Island hospitals' regional council meeting in Nanaimo today.

Participants include: Ken Noton, hospital administrator; Claude Green, board chairman; Miss A. Jennings, hospital matron; Steve Saunders, Larry Bailey, Mrs. H. Bowman, E. M. Richardson, Mrs. R. Shledel, C. Collins, Mrs. L. Andrews, Mrs. P. Hedley and Mr. J. Stephenson.

Board members were informed at a recent meeting that a bequest of $12,840 has been made to the local hospital from the estate of the late R. R. Bruce, former lieutenant-governor. A previous bequest of $22,000 from the Mayo estate has been invested in bonds.

Scientists predict that by 1970 world demand for tuna will reach 1,500,000 tons, double present production.

TRY THIS ON FOR SIZE

Ian and I were just talking about you the other day. Thinking it's time you tried on one of our custom-tailored protection packages — our Wawanesa Homeowners' Package Policy, to be precise. Through years of experience, Wawanesa have determined the exact amount of home protection most people need — against fire, theft, damage and liability. Then they've added a few important extras for your comfort and security. For example a special provision for additional living expenses — up to 20% of the building's value — if anything should happen to your home. But no frills. The result is a neat basic package that gives you just the right coverage for your particular home. And because it's pre-packaged, there's a premium saving of up to 20% over the same protection in individual policies.

Strike Threat By Printers Comes To End

NANAIMO — The threat of a printers' strike at the Nanaimo Free Press was averted late Friday when 18 members of the International Typographical Union, Local 337, announced they would accept a 19-cent-an-hour wage increase over a three-year period.

Free Press publisher William J. Lupton said earlier this week the printers would strike Monday morning unless some action was taken on their demands for a 21-cent-an-hour increase over a three-year period. The printers now get $2.75 an hour.

Howie Carruthers of the union negotiating committee, announced the strike had been postponed following a 2½-hour meeting Friday.

The offer is for an increase of six cents for the first year, seven cents for the second year and six cents for the third year. It also includes three weeks holiday a year for printers with nine years' service. At present, 10 years is required.

Mr. Carruthers said the offer now must be put to the full local membership for ratification.

Local 337 has about 50 members working in Port Alberni, Campbell River, Courtenay, Ladysmith and Duncan.

The increase would be retroactive to Oct. 1, 1962, when the union contract was due for renewal.

Destroyer Launched

HALIFAX (CP) — The 2900-ton destroyer-escort Annapolis was launched today by Mrs. George Nowlan, wife of the former finance minister. The 366-foot Annapolis, last of six Mackenzie class destroyers to be launched, cost $30,000,000.

GIVE FROM THE HEART TO THE RED SHIELD APPEAL

1963 Campaign begins May 1st

AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE,
VICTORIA, B.C.

His Honour and I are impressed with the quality of the care being provided by The Salvation Army for the senior citizens at Matson Lodge.

During our visit we met several guests and were pleased to receive their favourable comments, and to observe the general spirit of cheerfulness and well-being which was so evident.

We heartily commend The Salvation Army on this magnificent achievement in care for the aged.

Blythe Pearker

Fellow Citizens:

Once a year the opportunity comes to us to play our individual, but vitally important part, in the great humanitarian work being done by the Salvation Army in our community.

It is not for me to catalogue the good work of The Salvation Army. However, I would like to especially acknowledge the work being accomplished at the Men's Social Service Centre and the Harbour Light Corps on behalf of homeless, indigent men who have lost their place in society.

I urge my fellow citizens to recognize in the Red Shield Appeal an opportunity to assist in these very essential community services.
